Police Declare Slain at Opening Of His Trial

Gordon Northcott Has Confessed

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 30 (AP).—Alcibiade Bebe, Albanian student, who assassinated Zena Bey, Albanian Minister to Prague, was himself assassinated today at the opening of his trial. The assassin was a servant of a brother of Zena Bey, who was a brother-in-law of King Zogu of Albania.

Bebe fired two shots into the back of Zena Bey as he was seated in a cafe in Prague on the night of October 14, 1927. The minister died on his way to a hospital.

His deed accomplished, Bebe calmly handed his revolver to a waiter, surrendered his passport to a policeman and was taken away without resistance. He explained to the police that he had killed Zena Bey because he believed the minister intended to betray Albania to Jugoslavians.

The slain diplomat belonged to one of the most prominent of Albanian noble families and was known as an advocate of "The Balkans for the Balkan people."

An Italian newspaperman was seriously wounded by the assassin. The official court interpreter also was wounded. Gendarmes arrested the assassin, who made no attempt to escape.

Although officers on the train withheld the details they asserted they believed the 22-year-old "ape man," as he has been styled by relatives, had told enough to warrant a conviction.

Last night the officers disclosed that Northcott broke down under their grilling, and screaming "I am willing to die; I have nothing to live for," made his first admission, which was a confession that he took the headless body of an unidentified Mexican boy from his father's ranch near Riverside, Cal., and buried it near a Mexican settlement at Puente, Cal.

Northcott's confession was said to have disclosed that he burned the head of the body on the ranch. He also said the boy was killed with a small rifle but he declined to say who killed him or where the killing had taken place.

A woman known as his mother, Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, also under indictment for murder, is being held at Calgary, Alberta, awaiting extradition to California. She is alleged to have been his accomplice in one or more of the murders on the so-called Northcott "murder farm."

EXPLOSION AND FIRE WRECKS ROCHESTER HOME

Rochester, Nov. 30 (AP).—A terrific explosion, followed by fire, today wrecked a home here, caused considerable damage to adjoining houses and drove two families to the street. Damage was estimated at $7,500.

Only the fact that Jacob Russo and his family, occupants of the home, were visiting friends prevented a tragedy, police said, as only a few charred sticks remained of the house.

Fire department officials said there was no doubt about the incendiary origin of the explosion and fire and advanced the theory that the house had been filled with gas before touching it off.

BROPHY'S AUTOMOBILE HIT BY A TROLLEY CAR THURSDAY

Thomas Brophy of 30 Van Deusen street reported to the police department Thursday evening that while driving his Durant roadster up Broadway he attempted to pass a trolley car at Broadway and Dederick street. As he was passing the trolley car it suddenly turned off from the main line onto the switch connecting the Kingston city division with the old Colonial line. It is thought that the trolley switch had become turned, causing the trolley car to leave the main line and enter the switch.

ANNA CLARE SAYS AMELIA MACHOLDT ASSAULTED HER

Mrs. Amelia Macholdt of 24 Derenbacher street was arrested this morning by Sergeant Simpson on a warrant sworn out by Anna Clare charging Mrs. Macholdt with assault in the third degree. Later in police court the hearing was adjourned to next Thursday.

Elks' Dance Was a Success.

The house committee of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. E., are highly pleased over the success of the Thanksgiving Eve dance held at the Elks' home, Fair street, on Wednesday night. There were about 150 Elks and their guests present who enjoyed the acts given by the night club entertainers and augmented talent and the dancing in the assembly hall. The function did not end until 2 o'clock Thursday morning. Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the annual memorial service for members who died during the year will be held in the lodge room.

Constant at First Reformed Church.

The Cantata "Ruth" by Alfred R. Gaul, which will be given at the First Reformed Church on Sunday evening under the direction of W. Whiting Frobenburg, will be sung by the regular choir of the church, with Mrs. Benjamin W. Johnston, soprano; Mrs. Charles F. Doty, contralto and Leonard Stine, baritone, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Wicks, soprano and Herman LaTour, tenor.

Two Men Arrested.

Joseph Madjeski of 14 East Union street, and James Mitchell, a negro, of Ulster Landing, celebrated the holiday on Thursday by becoming intoxicated. This morning Madjeski was fined $10 and Mitchell was fined $5 by Judge Shufeldt in police court.

Sunday Movie Benefit Shows

Salvation Army, Benedictine and Kingston Hospitals to Share Kingston Theatre Corp. Show Receipts—Quality Features Continuous from 2 P. M.

Besides looking attractive photographs to inaugurate the screening of Sunday movies at its show houses on Sunday, December 2, the Kingston Theatre Corporation has considered the novel event from a benevolent viewpoint.

"The City of Kingston Hospital will receive 10 per cent of the receipts from the shows of Sunday, December 2," Harry Lazarus, manager of the Kingston Theatre Corporation, pleasantly announced as he discussed Sunday movies today. But this consideration is not worthy institution and public benefit will not stop at this one kindly act on the part of the theatre interests.

The Benedictine Hospital will receive 10 per cent of the receipts taken in Sunday, December 2, and the Salvation Army will get its 10 per cent share from the performances of the following Sunday, which will go toward the Christmas Dinner Fund.

This charitable spirit manifested by the Kingston Theatre Corporation will have a great deal to do with bringing happiness to needy ones and the act, undoubtedly, will be endorsed by many Kingstonians and residents of nearby communities, who likely will show their favor of it by attending the shows.

Efforts out of the ordinary have been put forth by Harry Lazarus to procure photographs that will meet the demands of audiences who seek first run pictures of highest quality. His choice of "Yellow Lily," starring Billy Dove, to be screened at the Broadway Theatre, and "The Road to Romance," featuring Ramon Navarro and the accompanying feature "Circus Rookies," presenting Dane and Arthur, screen comedians, in their funniest of funnies at the Kingston Theatre, hardly can fail to be favored with unanimous sanction.

Sunday movie shows in the Broadway and Kingston Theatres, beginning December 2, will start at the convenient hour of 2 p. m. and are to be continuous.

Confess Killing Farmer, Say Police

York, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP).—Accused of killing Nelson D. Rehmyer, 59-year-old farmer of North Hopewell township, and setting his body afire, John Byrnie, 42, and John Curry, 14, were arrested today. Both have confessed to the slaying, according to police, and Byrnie implicated a third party who has not been apprehended.

The motive for the murder has not been definitely established. Witchcraft appeared in the case when it was learned that Rehmyer and Byrnie both believed in the black art and were brought together through the former's visit to an alleged power doctor in New York.

In a reported signed confession the Curry boy told how he and Byrnie attacked Rehmyer last Tuesday night at the lonely spot where their victim lived and how, during the struggle which lasted about an hour, Rehmyer, threw them his pocketbook. Curry said he burned this in the fire which they made about the body without even looking at the contents.

Place Typhoon's Death Toll at 125

Manila, Nov. 30 (AP).—Delayed reports of last week's typhoon damage today disclosed that eleven seamen were drowned and four were reported missing when the inter island steamer Euzkadi grounded at San Juan island during the storm, which swept the central group of the Philippine Islands from Thursday until Saturday.

The Manila bulletin today placed the storm's dead at 125 and said 19 persons were unaccounted for. Property damage on the island of Negras has been estimated at $3,500,000. No definite estimate of the loss on San Juan island, one of the heaviest sufferers, has been made.

Indians Revive Sun Dances

Moscow, Idaho, Nov. 30 (AP).—Tribal war and sun dances abandoned more than a half century ago as features of their Thanksgiving celebration were revived last night by Nez Perce Indians, who, with several hundred braves from the Blackfoot, Colville, Yakima, Warm Springs and Umatilla reservations, began a three-day Thanksgiving ceremonial at the Nez Perce reservation near Lapwai, southeast of here.

To the music of tom toms and snake rattles the Indians, in full regalia, will continue the dances until Saturday.

Max Fuchsle Is Fined $25

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning Mrs. Fuchsle placed her husband, Max Fuchsle, under arrest at their home, 363 South Wall street, on a charge of disorderly conduct, and turned him over to Officer Bowser. Later in police court Judge Shufeldt fined Max $25, which he paid. According to the police report Max, who is a barber by trade, started breaking up the household furniture and drove his family out of the house.

Find Bodies of a Man and Woman

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 30 (AP).—The bodies of a man and woman found in an automobile early today on a lonely road off the main highway led police to suspect the woman was murdered and the man then killed himself.

He was identified as William J. Brocar, employed by his father as a grocery clerk. He was married and leaves a widow and two children.

Memberships for King Neptune Concert Series

Community Concert Association Memberships to Be Open for Limited Time, Beginning Monday—Success Depends on Public Response.

Kingston and the surrounding communities are to have the opportunity of hearing the world's greatest artists in a series of concerts this season through the organization of a Community Concert Association for which memberships will be open for a limited time, beginning on Monday of next week, December 3.

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth of New York, well known as a musical propagandist, writer and speaker, is national director of this significant movement, and has already visited Kingston to cooperate with the local committee in getting the association off to a good start. His chief public appearance was at a joint meeting of the service clubs last Wednesday, when he presented some of his entertaining musical specialties, in addition to bringing the community concert plan to the attention of the clubs.

There are no restrictions as to membership, but it is announced that admission to the concerts will be limited to those who have joined the association in advance, and no tickets will ever be sold at the door. A membership fee of five dollars guarantees a seat at every concert, with no further expense to anyone, and no possibility of a deficit.

The practical value of this plan lies in the fact that the audience is thus created in advance, assuring the highest possible quality of music, without waste or risk of any kind. The bigger the association, the bigger and better will be the resulting concerts. At least three events are promised if the association reaches the necessary minimum of five hundred members, and more can be added at the discretion of the local committee.

An unlimited list of artists is available for selection, including the stars of the Metropolitan Opera, such instrumentalists as Elman, Spalding, Hoffman, Casals, Bauer and Levtzki, and such ensembles as the Russian Symphonic Choir, various ballets, string quartets and even symphony orchestras.

A large number of local enthusiasts have already expressed the intention of both joining the association and securing additional members among their friends, and it is hoped that as many as 1,000 members may be enrolled next week.

There will be a meeting of the advisory council, and all others who are interested, at the Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The members of the executive committee are Clarence S. Rowland, chairman; Prof. Myron J. Michael, vice chairman; John C. Porter, secretary; Harry S. Ensign, treasurer; Mrs. Elsie Knauth, William Van Keuren and E. Frank Flanagan, directors.

King George Making Progress

London, Nov. 30 (AP).—Physicians' bulletins from the bedside of King George were generally regarded today as indicating that the monarch was making as good progress as possible at the present stage of his illness.

Hope for a normal recovery was perhaps stronger than at any time since it became known how serious the king's condition was.

The king, however, was not regarded as yet having turned the corner, for it was recognized that the restoration of the tissues of the pleura to a healthy condition would be a matter of several days during which the greatest skill of physicians would be demanded to avert any alarming development. Nevertheless, hopefulness was generally regarded as justified.

What might be taken as a sign of the growing confidence of the public in the king's progress was the removal of the report of his illness from the leading column by two morning papers. The stories of these papers on the ruler, while still on the front page, were given somewhat less space than before.

Stunt Flying Draws Crowd

Stunt flying and a parachute jump drew a large crowd to the flying field of the Kingston Airways, just over the Washington Avenue viaduct, on Thursday afternoon, and those who attended were well repaid. Captain Jack Nelson, who is an old hand at flying, did some stunts in the air and will give another stunt flight on both Saturday and Sunday. Eric Lindgren went up and did his spectacular stunt of dropping from a speeding airplane from an altitude that makes the plane look like a speck in the sky. Another flyer was Bill Grey, an ex-war ace. He was a member of the Canadian air forces and was an ace shortly after he got in service.

Thursday the oldest passenger to go aloft from the flying field was Thomas Purdy of 132 West Chestnut street, who is 76 years old. He said he enjoyed the flight more than he did his first auto ride.

Baldwin Sends Friendly Reply

London, Nov. 30 (AP).—It was learned authoritatively today that Premier Baldwin has dispatched a friendly reply to the proposal made by Representative Britten of the United States for an Anglo-American parliamentary conference on naval affairs.

The premier's reply was stated to have been inspired by the same spirit which animated the invitation. The reply has been sent to Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador at Washington, who is communicating with the state department.

King Neptune On Hoover Ship

Time-Honored Ceremony Performed as Ship Crosses the Equator—Allan Hoover Among the Landlubbers Who Are Initiated.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Nov. 30 (AP).—Rising from the sea with his trident, King Neptune today took charge of this good-will ship as it crossed the equator. His trusted shellbacks—those who have crossed the equator before—were with him to initiate pollywogs—those who haven't—into the mystery of his realm.

President-elect Hoover, shellback of shellbacks, who was crossing for the 15th time with Mrs. Hoover, and Ambassador Fletcher, who has witnessed many an initiation, watched the ceremony from a special platform built on a forward turret. Allan Hoover, son of the President-elect, was below with 23 landlubbers of the good-will party who were waiting their turn with 750 officers and sailors who had received warnings to appear before the Royal Court and receive sentence and punishment.

The high spot of the whole ceremony was the throwing of each candidate into a tank on the forecastle deck after he had been shaved by the royal barber. Before that various punishments had been meted out, including the swallowing of bad tasting pills; having the mouth washed out with a bluer tasting liquid; having oil of graphite rubbed in the hair and other forms of discomfort such as appearing in stocks or taking part in a chain gang.

While the rollicking show was going on today the Maryland was steaming swiftly southward so as to arrive in Ecuador at 5 a. m. tomorrow. Off the coast of Ecuador the Hoover party will be transferred to the cruiser Cleveland for a 60-mile trip across the roadstead and up the river to Guayaquil, where the President-elect will be the guest of President Isidro Ayala. He will be entertained tomorrow afternoon and night at a reception and dinner. This will be the first overnight stop on the good-will tour, which started at San Pedro on November 19.

New President of Mexico in Office

Pledges Continuance of Policies of His Predecessors, Especially in Regard to Friendship to United States.

Mexico City, Nov. 30 (AP).—Emilio Portes Gil took the oath as Provisional President of Mexico today and pledged his administration to a continuance of the policies of the Obregon and Calles governments, especially in regard to friendship with the United States.

Immediately after being sworn in the new president read a brief message outlining the policies his government will pursue. Approximately 25,000 persons were in the National Stadium to see the inauguration.

Regarding foreign relations, Portes Gil mentioned especially those with the United States. He said that as long as the American government continued to show a desire to respect Mexican sovereignty the American people would have no cause to complain about their southern neighbor. But he warned that sovereignty "is a point on which Mexico cannot recede or make concessions despite the magnitude of sacrifice that might become necessary."

The religious problem was not mentioned by the incoming president.

Adjournment in McManus Case

New York, Nov. 30 (AP).—The hearing on a detective's short affidavit charging George A. McManus with suspicion of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, gambler, was adjourned today until Wednesday.

Judge Francis A. Mancuso in General Sessions Court granted the adjournment at the request of District Attorney Jacob H. Banton and with the consent of James D. C. Murray, counsel for McManus.

The adjournment was asked on the ground that the grand jury had not completed its investigation. District Attorney Banton said the inquiry would be finished today unless some delay developed in appearance of subpoenaed witnesses.

Rev. John J. Dowd Dies.

Waterbury, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP).—Rev. John J. Dowd, for six years pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church here, died early today at the rectory. He was stricken with a cold a week ago and bronchial pneumonia developed.

Accepts Position.

Miss Kathryn Ryan, who received her business training at the Morris School, Bargeville Building, has accepted a desirable position in the office of the Benedictine Hospital, this city.

Special Term Here Saturday.

The regular special term of Supreme court will open at the court house Saturday at 10 a. m. Judge Nichols will preside.

Coolidge Busy On Thanksgiving

Swannanoa Club, near Waynesboro, Va., Nov. 30 (AP).—After an active Thanksgiving, President and Mrs. Coolidge settled down today to get the most out of the rest and recreation that their country residence at Swannanoa affords.

Neither arranged for any particular engagements today and tomorrow. While the president engages in some day pigeon shooting, Mrs. Coolidge looked forward to enjoying the pleasant walks which an attractive estate makes possible.

There was the hope by Mr. Coolidge, however, that he might find some quiet shooting during his stay here, although none of his plans was definite.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to Swannanoa last evening for Thanksgiving dinner after a day in Charlottesville, where they attended church services, had luncheon with Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, and watched a quarter of the Virginia-North Carolina football game.

In Charlottesville the Coolidges were greeted by Governor Byrd of Virginia, Governor McLean of North Carolina, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. Later in the day, Governors Byrd and McLean paid a return call at Swannanoa.

Five Men Injured In Auto Accident

Early Thursday morning while Amos B. Stokes of 457 Washington avenue was trying to drive his automobile to the left of a house being moved through Albany avenue, the passageway became so narrow that the automobile was wedged between a tree and the house, and he and four other men riding with him were slightly injured and his car was damaged. All five had their wounds dressed at the Kingston Hospital and then left for their homes. The house was towed to the Delaware Avenue Garage for repairs.

The house is being moved from East St. James street to just outside the city limits and had reached a point near the Ryan filling station on Albany avenue. Mr. Stokes attempted to drive to the left of the house.

The four other men riding with him were: Wilson Lester of 457 Washington avenue, James T. Baldwin of 507 Broadway, Joseph Clempson of 15 Lucas avenue and John DeGraff of 117 Newkirk avenue.

Hupp Takes Over Chandler Co.

Cleveland, Nov. 30 (AP).—Samuel Regar, treasurer of the Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporation, announced that negotiations for control of the Chandler Company by the Hupp Motor Car Corporation were concluded today.

Speaking for himself and his associates, including Fred C. Chandler, president, who is abroad, Regar said the deal had been consummated and arrangements made for the transfer of Chandler-Cleveland to Hupp.

No statement was issued as to Hupp plans for the Cleveland plants acquired.

Miller May Receive Parole

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP).—Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, convicted in New York on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government, was recommended for a parole today by the Federal Parole Board.

The recommendation must be approved by Attorney General Sargent before it becomes effective.

Miller was convicted in March, 1927, and sentenced to 15 months in the Atlanta penitentiary. He began serving the sentence last April 24.

Thanksgiving Day Union Services

The annual Thanksgiving Day services were held Thursday morning in the auditorium of the Kingston High School and were largely attended.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Harrison Black of St. James M. E. Church, and during the services Mrs. Black sang a solo. The scripture was read by the Rev. F. W. Moot of the Congregational Church and prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve of the First Reformed Church. The offering, as usual, was for the Industrial Home.

British Craft Reported Sinking

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 30 (AP).—The Japanese steamer Montreal Maru reported by wireless at 1:30 a. m. Pacific time, today that she was 50 miles from the distressed British freighter Chief Maquila, which was slowly sinking in mid-Pacific. The Montreal Maru asked the Chief to send up blue rockets, for Maquila said she would arrive about 4 a. m. side about four a. m.

Heavy Snowfall In Six Rocky Mountain States

Brought Needed Moisture Without Causing Suffering to Livestock—Little Damage Caused Aside from Impairing Transportation.

Denver, Nov. 30 (AP).—Residents of six snow-bound Rocky Mountain states turned from Thanksgiving feasting today to die out from under a heavy snow, that ended about the same time as the feasting did yesterday.

The almost continuous 22-hour fall left the entire region blanketed with from one to two feet of snow, which aside from impairing transportation and communication systems caused remarkably little damage, as moderate temperatures prevailed.

The sun was expected greatly to aid in clearing away the drifts today. The outlook was for fair and warmer weather.

The heavy fall called forth real thanksgiving in the farming areas, as it brought needed moisture without causing suffering to livestock. Six hundred Denver laborers found holiday employment in clearing streets and digging out stalled automobiles. Ten inches of snow fell here, while 17 inches was reported at Lander, Wyo. Pike's Peak lay under a 22-inch covering today.

Many of the better known mountain passes appeared definitely closed to motorists for the winter. Railroads expected to open snowbound lines during the day, however, and resumption of air mail service was promised.

The storm last night passed on into the Mississippi valley, where the outlook was for snow today as far eastward as the Missouri river.

ROBERTS CONDEMNATION HEARING ADJOURNED

Due to the fact that Judge William D. Cunningham is engaged in the trial of an action in New York city, an adjournment was had this morning in the condemnation proceedings in relation to the taking of the Roberts lands at Highland for the Hudson bridge at Troughkeepsie.

Judge Cunningham is engaged in actual trial work and as it is probable that he will be engaged for a month an adjournment was taken until some date in January to be agreed upon between County Attorney Groves and Judge Cunningham who appears for Miss Roberts in the matter. The commission which is hearing the testimony is Judge Frederick Stephan, Jr., District Attorney Traver and Mr. Ellen Flynn.

MORE VICTIMS OF HIT AND RUN MOTORISTS

Syracuse, Nov. 30 (AP).—Miss Nellie Ryan, 45, of Syracuse, was almost instantly killed today when she was struck by a hit and run motorist, hurled high into the air and thrown a considerable distance. Miss Ryan suffered a fractured skull, crushed chest and possibly two broken legs. Witnesses to the accident said the car, a light coupe, was traveling fast.

Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP).—Edward F. Donahue, 35, was found dead today lying in the street, the victim of a hit and run motorist, according to a woman who told police she saw an automobile run him down and speed away.

CLOTHING STILL NEEDED AT INDUSTRIAL HOME.

There is still a considerable need of warm clothing for the children at the Industrial Home, and the managers will be very grateful for warm stockings and underwear. But the greatest need is for overcoats for lads from 6 to 12 years old. Any one having such a garment to contribute is asked to communicate with Mrs. Phelps, telephone 2230.

Public Invited to Tea Dance.

The girls of the Girls' Friendly Society of St. John's Church invite the public to attend their annual Thanksgiving tea dance at the parish house Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. For the young people and their elders who enjoy dancing Zucchi's orchestra will furnish ideal dance music. For those who do not dance the serving of sandwiches and cakes and a social cup of tea with friends will be provided, so there will be enjoyment for all. In addition there will be home-made food for sale. The girls are counting on a large attendance to help them with funds to carry out their work.

Rabbi Rose's Topic.

The topic of Rabbi Rose's sermon at Temple Emanuel this evening will be "Shall We Have Religious Training in Our Public Schools?" The discussion will attempt to demonstrate that such practice would be contrary to American tradition. Service begins at 7:30 o'clock. The public is invited.

Mission Service Tonight.

The regular Friday evening service will be held in the Upper Room Mission, 562 Broadway, in the Northern building, near the West Shore, at 7:30. A large attendance is expected. A special interesting meeting is especially interesting meeting is promised. Everyone welcome.

Seeks to Help in Campaign.

All boys of the city are requested to appear in uniform at one o'clock Saturday, December 1, at the Chamber of Commerce room, for the purpose of helping out with the financial campaign of the city.

Among the Arts In New York

Mentioning somewhat of Woodstock artists who are showing their work in New York.

By F. G. Clough.

The Thanksgiving season in New York ushers in the most prolific display of the winter in the art galleries, the theatres and the book shops. For those who may be interested in some of the notable work being done by many of the Woodstock artists who spend their winter months in New York, a brief resume is here given.

This week there has been opened the first member's prize exhibition of the Grand Central Art Galleries; this is a very colorful show; for those who are not familiar with the Grand Central Galleries, it is located in the Grand Central Terminal, convenient to visit while waiting for train changes. There are many chief by Christopher Morley. C. rooms, all filled with paintings. Of Throckmorton and Grubb, where on the prize winners were Charles M. Monday night of this week "Old Davis, Richard Miller, and Harrison Meldeberg" was brought to life for sources," by John F. Carlson won signal praise.

In the National Academy of Design's exhibition just opened this week, Carl Wuermer, who has worked so diligently at his Woodstock studio the past few summers, carried off the J. Francis Murphy Memorial prize for his canvas, "Winter Day."

Of other Woodstock artists, Carl Walters is showing glazed pottery at the Potter's Shop, bringing out a number of new works with the introduction of new colors in his ceramic creations. The Greenwich House Workshop had a formal opening the past week; G. A. Hays, formerly with the Byrdcliffe pottery, is continuing similar work at this place. John Carroll's lithographs are being shown at the galleries of Frank K. M. Rehn. Ernest Felne is still showing at the Whitney Studio Gallery.

With the Theatres.

One of the newest innovations in the theatrical world is the revival of the Old Rialto Theatre in Hoboken.

Nervous Indigestion; Dizzy Spells Ended For This Local Lady

Mrs. Longendyke Praises Nu-Erb For Bringing
New Feeling of Health "Whole System Improved," She Says.

For a disordered stomach, weakened kidneys, sluggish liver, constipation, nervousness, rheumatism, neuritis and tired worn-out feelings there seems to be nothing better than the great herbal compound, Dr. French's Nu-Erb, which is being introduced in Kingston by the Nu-Erb Specialist at McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall street. Many local people have already derived amazing results. Mrs. D. S. Longendyke, 58 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., says:

"Nu-Erb has done so much for me in a short time that I feel everybody who suffers as I did should know about this splendid medicine. I had such severe troubles with indigestion that the pains were almost unbearable. Gas formed after every meal in what felt like a great large ball right in the pit of my stomach. I bloated terribly and experienced a choking sensation in my throat. My liver was sluggish I know, for I would get frequent dizzy spells and dark spots floated before my eyes. I awakened each morning with a stale bitter taste in my mouth. I was a victim of chronic constipation and my nerves were so weakened that I could not sleep for hours after going to bed at night.

"For more than five years I suffered this way and it seemed no medicine would ever help me until I started using Nu-Erb about a month ago. This wonderful medicine has actually put an end to each of these troubles and now I can eat what I want without fearing any trouble with indigestion or gas. My liver is active. The dizzy spells and spots before my eyes have disappeared. My nerves are steady and my bowels are acting normally every day. I cheerfully recommend this medicine to anyone.

Nu-Erb is being introduced in Kingston at McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall street. A special laboratory representative now located there is daily explaining the merits of this remarkable medicine. Go to see him. His advice is free.

Among Books.

Chief among non-fiction books published the past week is "Anubias, Or the False Artist," by Walter Pach, a book that is having the same result as might follow a hand-grenade dropped into a smug dug-out poker game. The author of this book takes a broadside swing at the art hung in Museums (he mentions chiefly the Metropolitan) which is "false," "half-way gestures," and marks the artists as nineties "on both sides" at once. Mr. Pach's plea isn't for modern art, neither for another school, but he asks fair questions. Among artists often praised for reputation, but whose work Mr. Pach terms mediocre (by implication, and name) are Sargent and Zuloaga. His book is courageous, timely and deserves consideration.

Field Mice Eat Trees

Field mice gnaw the bark from orchard trees, and kill many by girdling them. In a single winter they damage nurseries near Rochester, N. Y., to the extent of $100,000.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

One evening Dame Fashion had a good deal of amusement from the radio, hearing one of her acquaintances tell of the difficulty he had in making plain to a Spanish general in Cuba, through an interpreter, just who Santa Claus was. But there is not an individual, small or great, in these United States, who needs any description of the loving, genial old saint.

But many times gifts do not wait for Santa and his sleigh bells. Santa Claus seems to have dozens of gay little nephews—those who have charge of bridge and bunco clubs, contests of every sort for church and young folks' parties, events of coming or going or being born or becoming a grandmother, or getting engaged or married, or entering upon a new enterprise or occupation. For all of these the people of this happy country just pour out gifts. This increased custom of gift-giving furnishes just the oxygen to keep alive the fascinating gift shops.

Dame Fashion leaned the other day in admiration over the displays of a department where she could see gifts appropriate for individuals of many kinds—and all with the touch of new ideas about them. Looking over her notebook afterwards, there was the word "modernistic" to be found on every single page, showing that the new choker chains, the convenient compacts, the mesh bags and the leather—yes, and even the watches and clocks have felt the witchery of color splashes and mystic triangles. On one leaf of the book was scrawled, "The modernistic idea is as catching as the measles."

Two articles Dame Fashion nearly carried away with her—on that principle that is often so good, that of buying a gift for yourself, when no one is likely to think to buy it for you. Sometimes it happens when you put on a gown you cannot suit yourself in your whole box of bead chains. In such a time of stress, think how wonderful to have at hand a "Gypsy La Belle" chain, with long beads something of the type that the grandmothers used to call "bugles," with all the colors of the rainbow in it, to match any gown! The other article that made an ardent call to her was a clock; not such a big clock, but one that had the tower and stained glass effect of some European abbey.

As Santa Claus rides about in his sleigh this year, he will see, if he is at all observing, that he is not the only wearer of a red coat and cap. If Dame Fashion might be allowed to coin a mild slogan in that regard, it would be "A shade of red for every head." Little folks start off to school in an extra happy mood, with a bright red beret or soft knitted cap, while Dame Fashion can declare from experience that if you are even middle-aged, and stand before the mirror to adjust a felt, velvet or velvet hat or cap of rich red, claret or burgundy, you will involuntarily have to smile to match it.

Dame Fashion can also report having had a wireless message from Santa Claus that he hopes he will be assisted by as many as possible who will burn a tall red candle in their front window at the Christmas time, and that if ten thousand went out and sang Christmas carols last year, he hopes a hundred thousand will do it this season.

Bows, Streamers Feature Winsome Afternoon Dress

Flowered chiffon for afternoon occasions clings to its place in the sun. Here is a lovely creation in dark blue, beige, green and orange that flutters with bows and streamers.

"Giving No Offense"

Offense is more frequently given by the manner in which truth is spoken than by the truth itself. He who makes truth disagreeable, commits high treason against virtue.—Sophia Parker, in "Gems for the Toilet."

Many Women in Need of Long Lines for Height

Do you need to look a little taller and not quite so plump? It's a desire many women have expressed. The frock illustrated has the long slim height-giving lines. This frock would look particularly well if made of crepe-back satin using both sides, a fabric that has triple recommendation of quality, durability and chic. A good navy blue in the same material would be equally as charming and give the same effect.—Woman's Home Companion.

Many Soft Innovations in This Season's Modes

The trend for feminizing softness seems to be continuing in popularity—making good the prophecy that styles would be more elaborate for the fall and winter months, observes a fashion writer in the Cleveland News. The afternoon dress which, due to the tremendous popularity of the sports two-piece, seemed to have fallen into the discard, is back again and gives promise of being much worn.

There are many such dresses in the shops made of flat crepe, transparent velvet and heavy satin. Each model seems to make a special effort to get away from the simplicity of the straight silhouette. As a result, these gowns introduce many soft innovations—draped necklines, trailing scarves and every manner of skirt irregularity.

One model seen at a recent fashion showing boasted this elaborate treatment. It was made of black crepe satin, heavy and sleek. Its bodice, described in surplised style, sponsored shoulder tucks, a deep V neckline backed with an inset of biscuit-colored chiffon and a graceful scarf. The latter of black satin with the light chiffon, conformed loosely to the neckline, with one of its ends slipping carelessly through a slit in the other. The effect was of a delightful soft neck-draping.

Sleeves were, according to the dictates of the moment, long and fitted but running into a little fluted ruff at the wrists. Wrist strings of self-material appeared to confine this fullness.

The skirt fell straight from the slightly bloused bodice with two full, irregular-lengthed flares appearing at either side of a long over skirt. The whole costume had good style and evidenced a complete departure from the approved severity of former modes.

Raspberry Red Fashions Charming Evening Outfit

A Worth evening ensemble particularly admired is "Eldorado" which is developed in a heavy ribbed silk called matalot in a most luscious shade of raspberry red. This gown is straight in outline without an apparent waistline and is formed of curved panels in a most effective way. The sides of the hemline dip in delicious curves giving a new outline. Over this gown is worn a velvet evening cape with a lining in the same shade just a bit lighter. Two narrow strips of the two shades of velvet hang from the back in a loose knot, while its main feature is its new high collar of sable standing straight up in the back to the top of the wearer's head and opening in the front in a graceful curve, forming a most attractive frame for the face.

Homespun Is Effective Material for Winter

Homespun is considered an effective material in Paris for the winter suit. At smart gatherings there are worn some attractive acetate hip length coats, which are reminiscent of the cardigan at the front opening and which have buttoned straps at the sides, the under arms and the side hip pockets. Usually these models are completed by a loose belt and are worn over a diagonally striped jersey jumper blouse. The skirt top of this type of model is fitted down so low on the hips that the fitted section is visible below the coat edge, while the rest of the skirt flares out in front and side plaits.

Temperature at Poles

The North pole is about 24 degrees warmer than the South pole in summer. One reason for that is that even in winter the water under the pack ice is relatively warm.—starty 30 Fahrenheit.

THE FUEL BLUES

"There is no industry in the country in a more deplorable condition than the coal industry," says one of its leaders. The trouble is, he explains, that capacity to produce coal has developed faster than ability to consume it. So many mines cannot sell their output and others are forced to dump their product on the market at less than cost. The situation is made worse by the steadily enlarging consumption of petroleum as a fuel substitute. Coal consumption has not gained any in 19 years.

Really, it seems too bad that the United States is blessed with half of the world's known coal supply. If we had less, our coal operators might make money and our miners earn decent living. As it is, here we are complaining because we possess the most useful commodity on earth in such enormous quantities that we can't burn it up as fast as we can dig it. Same way with oil. Only we have less of it, so the oil situation isn't quite so bad. If our coal were nearly exhausted, and selling at the price of sugar, everybody—except the consumer—would feel much better about it.

DOUBLE INHERITANCE TAX.

The announcement that Payne Whitney, whose fortune amounted to something over 191 millions, "left the largest estate on record in the United States or in any foreign country" must have surprised many readers, until it was remembered that the Rockefeller and Henry Ford are still living and that Andrew Carnegie gave away the greater part of his fortune before he died. Commenting on the fact that the Payne Whitney estate will yield New York $16,500,000 and the Federal government about $4,000,000 in inheritance taxes, the New York World says:

This tax is not burdensome; the decedent does not feel it, and in an estate so huge it can hardly work a hardship to the heirs. It is just and equitable, for the general growth of the community contributed to the Whitney wealth. Helping check the size of estates, it serves a valuable public purpose. A payment of fifteen and a half millions is roughly one-twelfth the annual receipts of the State and will help materially to solve our budget problems. Altogether the yield from this record-breaking estate is a telling illustration of the value of the inheritance tax.

The double inheritance tax, State and Federal, on such great estates is not burdensome and is equitable, as the World says, but it is very burdensome in the case of small estates and its equity in such cases is more than questionable. A reasonable limit below which small estates should be exempt is desirable.

TO TAX FOREIGN FICTION.

In behalf of "some half million writers" in this country who are "starving to death because they can't market the product of their pens" Senator Johnson of California, as a promising tariff enthusiast, has been requested to put through a bill taxing foreign fiction two cents a word. And yet there is librarian report that "detective stories can't be produced fast enough to suit the tired business man." But a great part of the trouble seems to be that, on the whole, England produces more enthralling mystery stories than America, for the reason that "the English scene, English society, English law, English customs, English nearness to the Continent, make available for English purveyors of mystery varied and interesting material beyond the reach of ours." Moreover, English writers have "the alternating stupidity and supernatural assistance" of the famed Scotland Yard to help them.

It is hoped that Mr. Hoover will be sympathetically interested in putting a check upon the unfair competition complained of and that he will do so. Did not Congress give Mr. Coolidge the right to revise a "feasible" tariff up or down and did he not frequently revise it up? Will not even greater powers be conferred on the overwhelmingly elected Mr.

Hoover and will he not obligingly settle this matter with a single stroke of his pen? Did he not during the campaign generously advocate a tariff high enough to safeguard every American? The prospects would indeed seem to be bright, but at the same time some measure of doubt intrudes itself. For Mr. Hoover is one of the emigrants who have been reported as doing on detective stories and as trading them by the dozen. What if he should take the ground that both he and the public generally should be able to purchase the most absorbing ones at reasonable rates?

Argument and recrimination about the war and who won it and what everybody got out of it, and about armament and who needs how much and what for, are being banded back and forth again between America and Europe. And as usual, there is no conclusion that satisfies both sides. Here, however, is one good thing that has come out of the controversy. A writer in the Echo de Paris, addressing his fellow-countrymen, says: "After all, one thing is certain. Those folks on the other side of the Atlantic are no worse than we are. But it is just as certain that they are not any better." Now if we will apply that, word for word, to our European friends, everybody can agree and quit jawing.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

APPENDICITIS

Perhaps you wonder why I talk about appendicitis so frequently. It is a well recognized condition, and if operation is performed early, practically every case recovers.

Yet appendicitis is increasing, and deaths therefrom are more frequent than ever before.

Why? Because folks are always looking for the "regular" symptoms of appendicitis and often fail to persuade the physician to wait also. Often they attribute the pain to some special "food" eaten.

As you know the usual symptoms begin with a pain in the abdomen which gradually gets over to lower right side and remains there, then there is vomiting or a feeling of nausea; then tenderness of the abdomen over the region of the appendix; then rigidity or "tightening" of the abdominal wall over the appendix region; and finally a rise in temperature.

Dr. Herbert A. Bruce has been calling the attention of the profession to a number of cases where these regular or "classical" symptoms were not all present, and owing to delay in operating, these cases were beyond help by the time the operation was performed.

These cases were thought to be "acute indigestion." Dr. Bruce's suggestion is that the physician should call the surgeon in consultation at the very beginning of the trouble, and not wait for a few days until an emergency operation becomes necessary. Let the patient and friends know that the surgeon is not being called necessarily for the purpose of performing an operation, but because he is the best qualified man to make a diagnosis.

Many times he would not operate, but he would have an opportunity of seeing surgical diseases at a much earlier stage, when the patient's chances of recovery by operation would be infinitely greater.

The family physician naturally wants to spare the patient and family the inconvenience and expense of an operation.

And yet as appendicitis is really a "surgical" condition, calling in a surgeon is the same as calling in an eye specialist, an ear specialist, or a nerve specialist, when indicated.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
New York—Among contributors to an edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica now in preparation are Gene Tunney, Governor Smith and Henry Ford, writing, respectively, on boxing, New York and automobiles.

Paris—Georges Clemenceau is a movie fan now. He cared little for the cinema till the talkies, or, as he calls them, the sonorous films, came along. In the last few months he has seen five or six films at private showings. "One should always learn," he explains.

New York—Whether it was just for Thanksgiving or something else is unexplained, but Miss Anne Morgan arrived from Europe Wednesday and is going back tomorrow.

Amiens, France—The granddaddy of all razors seems to have been discovered. One found by archeologists is estimated to be 10,000 years old. Apparently it was used by stone-age dandies.

New York—Peaches, who has been in vaudeville, is to have a role in a legitimate play on Broadway.

Turin, Italy—For giving her blood three times for the needy, Signorina Maria Teresa Gianoglio, an employee of the state telegraph service, has been complimented by Queen Elena.

In one day she aided a disabled veteran and a poor woman by transfusion.

New York—Some of the critics whose holiday task was to review Ganna Walska's first radio concert were informed that Harold F. McCormick tuned in at his home in Chicago and telephoned his congratulations.

Rome—The villa inhabited by Napoleon at Elba is to be restored by the government. It intends to sue for recovery of the property from a private owner and have it officially classified as a historical monument.

New York—Dr. Moritz Stoehr, professor of bacteriology, whose avocation is fussing with machinery and inventing things at home, and his wife, Herma Menth, concert pianist, have discovered the way to happy marriage, for themselves at least. For four years they have lived next door to each other. Prior to that his grinding disturbed her music and he never could find his apparatus.

London—Stanley Baldwin, who is fond of his pipe, has a personal and particular cause for Thanksgiving. "If there had been no America there would have been no tobacco," he said at a dinner of the American society. "Virginia—Heaven bless it—is the only country in the world that had tobacco as its currency."

Leamington, England—The skeleton of a three-eyed plesiosaurus has been found in the neighboring village of Harbury. The bones measure 30 feet by 10. An expert of the British Museum estimates the specimen is at least 100,000,000 years old.

First George Seen as

Diagnose to Royalty

When the devil was asked how many monarchs he had in his keeping, the legend has it he replied, "All that ever reigned." It is certain that during the reign of George I there were many Englishmen who heartily despised their monarch to the north regions but even at his death it is unlikely he obliged them because he had never really reigned.

His court, however, was one of the worst that ever afflicted Great Britain. The German courts whence he came had taken their tone from the profligacy of Versailles and George I was too heavy minded to be an exception. All was coarse and vulgar around his throne and the attendants and mistresses he brought along with him sought to make their fortune out of the nation upon which he had been foisted.

George could not even speak English, nor could his ministers speak German. So the king absented himself from cabinet meetings and let the nation run itself while he pursued his own pleasures. One of his amusements between vices was to sit on the floor and cut out paper dolls.

If the king liked anybody, man or woman, they could have anything they wanted. Women were given appointments that belonged only to men; men utterly unfitted were given positions of great responsibility. Certain infants at birth were made cowboys or ensigns in the army and received pay up to a marriageable age. He died in 1727.—Detroit News.

Sheep First Used for

Transfusion of Blood

The first transfusion of blood to a human being took place November 23, 1667, at a meeting of the Royal Society in London. A silver tube was used to connect the carotid vein of a sheep with a vein in the subject's arm. Samuel Pepys, famous diarist, was among those present and he describes the patient as "a poor and debauched man that the college had hired for 20 shillings to have some of the blood of a sheep let into his body . . . their purpose to let in about 12 ounces, which they compute is what will be let in in a minute's time by the watch."

Dr. John A. Kolmer, in Hygeia Magazine, quotes the transactions of the society for December 8, a week later, which reported that "the man, after this operation as well as in it, found himself very well and hath given his own narrative under his own hand, exclaiming more upon the benefit he thinks he hath received by it than we think fit to own as yet."

Would Change Language

Danish was the official and literary language of Norway from the time of the union with Denmark until the beginning of the nineteenth century. Although the classics of Norway are written in Danish-Norwegian, there is a linguistic national movement called the Landsmaal, which aims to root out the Danish-Norwegian and make Landsmaal the national language of the whole of Norway.

Winners at Ulster Gun Club Shoot

The Ulster County Gun Club held a turkey shoot on Thanksgiving Day which was largely attended and a good sport was had by all. The first turkey was won by Robert Martin and the second by Mr. Brown of Marlborough, both men making a perfect score of ten each out of a possible ten.

Two geese were also prizes. One was won by Edward Cunningham with a score of nine of a possible ten. A. A. Davis was the winner of the other goose. Martin Longendyke and Davis each having nine out of a possible ten, but Davis was successful in the shoot-off.

The following men won one or more chickens:

C. Cole, Mr. Doyle, William Kelder, R. Martin, C. Preston, Dr. Hill, R. Wheeler, T. Wilson, Tony Imperial, Mr. Brown, A. A. Davis, Mr. McConnell, Mr. Doyle, Jr., Mr. Tongue, D. Whipple, Mr. Eck, R. Longendyke, Mr. Stone, C. O. Fromer.

The winners of ducks were:

R. Wheeler, A. Davis, R. Martin, R. Cauntz and Mr. Brown.

Memory System

It is easy to forget what we ought to do, and to remember what we want to do. The best memory system must therefore concentrate on what ought to be done, and keep it ever before the soul's attention.—Exchange.

Bird "Alarm Clocks."

Living alarm clocks are quite the thing in Liberia. The little peeper bird takes it upon himself to wake up the Liberians every morning. Possibly the bird is aware that the natives cannot have the regular sort of alarm clocks because the climate takes all the alarm out of them—and life, too.

The peeper bird simply cannot stay still when the sun comes up. He flutters to the housetops, fences and neighboring trees uttering his shrill, excited calls, which have come to mean "Get up." The natives, and the whites as well, can count on him, for he has been timed and checked, and it was found that his waking cries did not vary more than three minutes from day to day. During the hot part of the day the bird disappears in the woods.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Pineapple at Its Best.

Travelers in Costa Rica love to tell of the delight afforded in partaking of the pineapple grown in that country, and of the novel way of serving it at the table. Servants have developed unusual skill in paring the rind leaving the entire heart of the fruit for the diner. It is served in a wide and deep plate, a fork is stuck in to hold it in place, a spoon then enables the diner to dip out the abundant fruit goodness and enjoy it at leisure. The fruit is overflowing with juice, delicate and refreshing, as the fruit ripens naturally while on the tree.—R. Venning.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

WINTER DAMAGE TO RASPBERRIES

Canes Are Wholly or Partially Killed in Fall.

Winter injury on raspberries consists of the canes being partially or wholly killed some time after the plants have stopped growth in the fall. The tips of the canes are usually affected first, because this portion of the cane is the youngest wood. The extent of the winter injury is probably dependent on two factors: first, the state of maturity of the canes, and second, the degree of the fluctuation of the temperature. If the plants go into winter with a large amount of soft young wood the amount of injury is much greater than where the wood has had time to mature. Since the wood that is designed to bear the fruit is nearest the tip of the cane, it frequently is responsible for crop failures.

Such dead or injured wood affords a splendid point of entrance for wood parasites which continue the destruction of the living wood. Thus we often find the disease called cane blight.

Cantharidum powder, which occurs as a by-product of winter injury.

The most practical way of preventing winter injury that has been observed is to lay down the canes in the fall and cover them with dirt. This may be done with a spade or by throwing two furrows together, thus burying the canes in a ridge just over the crowns of the plants. This practice has been observed to effectively prevent winter injury. If this practice cannot be followed, then every effort should be made to keep the plants into the winter condition with the minimum amount of immature wood.

Winter Pruning Points

From New Hampshire

The New Hampshire station gives the following advice:

The saw is becoming most popular for ordinary pruning work. Whatever implements are used, they should be kept sharp and make a clean cut, without leaving a stub.

In pruning old trees, care should be taken to thin out the small wood in the outside of the tree in order to admit more light. Thinning out the tree is a valuable help in scrub control, and also keeps the tree more thrifty and productive. By pruning trees in winter fruit growers can help avoid a rush in the spring work, and December is ordinarily a time when the job can be done to advantage.

If any trees are affected by canker, all tools should be disinfected after cutting with a solution made of one 15 grain tablet of bordeaux of mercury in a pint of water.

Control Scale Insects

by Use of Lime-Sulphur

The common material used to control all scale insects is lime-sulphur. This is a combination of slaked lime and flowers of sulphur in water which, when applied to scale insects, cuts off the air supply and smother them. Spraying for control of scale must be done at this time of year, as the material is highly caustic and will burn the foliage if applied when the plant is in leaf.

The formula is one gallon of commercial liquid lime-sulphur to eight gallons of water. Dry lime-sulphur may be substituted for the liquid where only small quantities of spray are needed. Use it at the rate of 12 or 15 pounds to 50 gallons of water. These quantities, both liquid and dry, may be increased or decreased in proportion to the amount of material needed.

Fire Danger

Spontaneous combustion is a frequent cause of fire in barns. Manure piles and imperfectly cured hay are two things that should be watched closely for signs of heating.

Good Fishing Grounds

Montrose pits are deep places in the sea near Montrose, Scotland. Great numbers of codfish are caught here.

Horticultural Notes

These sharp clean cuts. They leave stumps.

Do not allow fallen fruit to remain under the trees to harbor insect pests.

The first thing to learn about the red raspberry and the point to keep in mind all the time is that it suckers, like quack grass.

There is an old saying "When the knife is sharp," meaning of course that any old time is the time to prune. Fruit men know better nowadays, and confine their pruning work largely to the winter season.

The scale insects plums, peaches, cherries, apples, pears, raspberries, blackberries, gooseberries, currants, roses, lilacs and other shrubbery of like nature, also most of the shade trees.

Spraying for the control of scale must be done before the buds have opened as the solution is very caustic and will scorch or burn the foliage. If in leaf, it is also very hard on lands, and heavy leather gloves should be used, else the hands will soon begin to bleed.

Folklore Legends That

Have Many Believers

Legends and folklore are still very much a part of the life of the British Folklore Society. For example, one speaker told the congress that there still is a belief in the Isle of Man that the cat of the island has a string of their own. During the day the string is coiled around the cat's body, but at night he uncoils it and travels about in regal state. It is dangerous for a traveler to go with him, for he will treat the traveler unkindly. Cats are further believed to be on intimate terms with fairies and other invisible inhabitants of the world of mystery. The cat is the only member of the household allowed to remain in the kitchen when the farmer enters to warm himself, for the human residents have gone to bed. Again, large black dogs are said to be sent to guard the house at night. The best way to pursue a witch is to chase her with a greyhound having not a single black hair. An old Manx law is to the effect that any Manxman might kill a Scotsman provided that the Manxman must go to Scotland and bring back two goats to keep the Scotsman's ghost away.—Pierre Van Paasen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Mystery of Dollar Mark.

There are many theories as to the origin of the dollar mark, but there is not one which seems to be thoroughly satisfactory. It is popularly supposed to be a conventional combination of the letters U S, but there are some which say that it is a sign made use of by the ancient sun worshippers of Central Asia, while another attributes it to the bookkeeper of a Virginia tobacco warehouse. There are various other explanations, all of which have been investigated by a university professor who has given special study to the subject, and his conclusion is that the dollar mark as we know it is a direct descendant from the Spanish abbreviations of PS for pesos, the letters of which have been gradually combined and metamorphosed into the present dollar mark. The P was often made with two strokes, which could very readily in the course of time, become a U by making one down stroke and continuing the line upward.

WINDJAMMER IN PACIFIC VOYAGE BREAKS RECORD

Trip From Alaska to Golden Gate in Made in 11 Days by the Star of England.

San Francisco.—The bark Star of England, white winged daughter of the gales, will not go down into maritime history besmirched with disgrace.

Last spring she was ignominiously beaten by the Star of Alaska in their epic race from the Golden Gate to Alaska waters in what will probably be the last race between windjammers in the world.

For months Capt. Charles Wiese, master of the Star of England, felt the disappointment keenly. During the long days in Alaska waiting for his ship's hold to be loaded to the gunwales with cans of salmon, the veteran sea captain planned to erase the stigma of defeat.

Recently he dropped the Star of England's mudhook in San Francisco bay just 11 days out of Alaska, Alaska, setting what is believed to be a new record for fast passage between Alaska and San Francisco.

Moreover, in breaking the record, she took some part of the glory away from her former conqueror, Star of Alaska, for it was that ship which had previously held the record, making the trip in 12 days three years ago.

It was a foul wind but a fair one that brought the latest victory to the windjammer. This craft had earned the nickname "Daughter of the Gales" for good reason. Her ability to carry canvas in the strongest gale is renowned in shipping circles of the Pacific coast.

On the northbound passage, there was a stiff breeze but nothing approaching a gale. As a result, the Alaska made the trip in 19 days, while the England followed in her wake, arriving in 34 days.

With his weather eye cocked on the barometer and after a careful scrutiny of the wind current charts, Captain Wiese was sure of his triumph on the south-bound passage.

Sailing directly into the teeth of the sou'westerly gales enroute home, her canvas taut, her line quivering in the strong winds, her clipper bow cutting the seas like a knife, she hove into port a conqueror.

Avoids Mine Perils; Dies of Pin Scratch

New York.—Only a year ago Benjamin Waslosky, twenty years old, died in the depths of a coal mine in Scranton, Pa. His father and an uncle and others also had been victims of the family occupation, mining.

When Benjamin was buried his mother decided she would keep her remaining son, Anthony, a boy of sixteen, out of the coal mines and find for him a less hazardous occupation.

Opportunities for work were presented, but one by one they were vetoed by the mother, whose imagination saw the slightest hazard transformed into a menace.

Three months ago she was satisfied when Anthony went to live with his married sister, Mrs. Verna Lotz of Bayonne, N. J., who found for him a job with a dress company there. His work there was delivering goods and keeping the shop clean.

The boy died recently in Bayonne hospital of blood poisoning and pneumonia induced by a pin prick in his left hand. His employer, George Chusid, said Anthony was cleaning the floor recently and a pin embedded in the floor barely punctured the skin.

244 Killed in Year by Autos in Train Crashes

Washington.—The American Railway association said recently that highway grade crossing accidents caused by automobiles crashing into the side of trains were continuing to increase at an alarming rate.

In 1927, the association said, more than 20 per cent of such accidents were caused in this manner. Two hundred and forty-four persons were killed and 1,636 were injured in 1,148 of such accidents, which involved passenger automobiles, buses and trucks. Of these, 1,027 were passenger automobiles, contributing 220 to the death list. Many of them, the association reported, had crashed through crossing gates before striking the train.

Nine hundred seventy-nine passenger automobiles crashed into trains in 1926, causing 207 deaths.

"World Getting Worse," Boy, 17, Hangs Himself

Los Angeles, Calif.—A seventeen-year-old boy who found the world a sordid place put it behind by leaving the breakfast table and hanging himself.

John Kirby Brown seemed more melancholy than usual.

"There were a lot of suicides over the week-end," he said, as he sat down at the breakfast table with his parents and his sister. "The world's getting worse instead of better. Every day it is getting worse."

An hour later his sister found his body dangling from a rope in the garage.

Pumpkin Weighs 99 Pounds

Tinsville, Va.—The prize pumpkin of the season here weighed 99 pounds. It was brought to Tinsville from the James R. Twieble farm. The pumpkin measures 67 inches in circumference. The product is perfectly formed and although a giant in size, is solid.

Credited to St. James

The St. James palace was formerly the royal palace of Great Britain. From this fact arose the designation of "Ambassadors to the Court of St. James."

HOW CHEAP Is Your Free Hot Water?

Do you know that devices inserted in a furnace for heating water rob two rooms of their heat!

This fact has been conclusively proved by the results of careful tests and accurate calculations concerning the heat absorbed by such devices. Water heated by this method is not free. Further, their use cause dead spots in the fuel bed, lowering furnace efficiency, contribute to clogged pipes and rusty water because of periodic overheating, and do not assure adequacy of hot water.

Automatic storage gas water heaters, being thermostatically controlled, cannot overheat, and because of their highly insulated tank will assure the user of sufficient hot water at all times.

The following plumbers sell gas storage water heaters in your territory:

Events Around The Empire State

(By The Associated Press.)

Rochester—Clarence Hallow and Albert Edward Wiggam, noted author, will debate in Convention Hall here, December 11, on "Way to Men Differ—Hereditarily or Environmentally?" The argument in favor of heredity will be upheld by Mr. Wiggam while Mr. Hallow will contend that men are slaves of environment.

Canandaigua—Residents of this city during the past year have saved $31,666, approximately $4 for every man, woman and child in the city, through Christmas Club accounts in the Canandaigua National Bank and Trust Company and the Ontario Trust Company. The amount is about $660 larger than last, according to officials of both banks.

Rochester—Jane, the lioness presented by Jane Thurston, daughter of Thurston the magician, to Rochester school children three years ago, has a long memory. When her former mistress visited the city recently, the lioness leaped against the bars and showed unmistakable signs of pleasure at seeing her.

Willard—Each of the 19 World War veterans at the State Hospital for the insane here received a message of Thanksgiving cheer in the form of a new $2 bill from the Canandaigua Auxiliary, American Legion.

Canandaigua—Charles F. Milliken, editor of the Ontario County Times, a local weekly paper recently was reelected president of the Ontario County Historical Society. Mr. Milliken is the author of several books on historical subjects.

Lake George—Warren county has appropriated $15,000 for removal of snow from county highways during the coming winter. The board of supervisors announced that all state and county roads will be kept open this winter.

Rubber Improves Violins

Modern violins may be made to rival the product of the old masters by impregnating the wood with rubber latex before varnishing, according to the claim of a German investigator named Hiltner-Graz, writing in the scientific magazine Natur und Kultur. He states that this treatment causes the wood to remain permanently elastic.

Tracing Nile's Sources

Since remote antiquity the Nile has been famous for the civilizations developed on its banks. Its sources, however, remained a mystery until recent times. In 1858 Lake Victoria was discovered by Speke and in 1859 Lake Albert was found by Baker.

MODENA.

Modena, Nov. 28.—The people of Modena and vicinity responded splendidly to the "Second Alarm" which Brewster Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, termed their minstrel show. "Brewster's Brevities," presented at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening for the benefit of Modena Fire Department. The first number was a selection by the company's band, followed by a scene showing the organization of the idea of the minstrels. Robert Ruckdeschell then sang "Pal of Long Ago." Selections by the band, recitations and a solo aptly rendered were next in order, followed by a specialty act, "The License Bureau," which was a scream throughout. The second act, John A. Coleman, interlocutor, presented the premier ends who were D. Coleman, J. Briody, William Brooks, Joe Verdino, H. Haight, E. Haley, A. Keppler, H. Tuthill, A. Martin, B. Schellensinger, W. Coleman, R. Henderson, E. Hamway, F. Erdman. Following this, selections by the band, vocal selections, dance specialties and jokes were enjoyed. At the conclusion of the entertainment a cafeteria supper was served. Philip Jenkins and Lester Wager attended the Army-Nebraska football game at West Point Saturday afternoon of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van Kleek and son of Samsonville visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Weeks Sunday.

Mrs. Freston Paltridge and daughters, Edith and Gloria, were shoppers at Newburgh Saturday.

Mrs. Matilda Trowbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Emzie Trowbridge and daughter, Alice, of Kingston, also Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Centerville were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wager.

Tickets are on sale for the hot chicken supper to be served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Plattekill, for the benefit of Plattekill fire department. The date of the supper is Wednesday evening, December 6, at Plattekill Grange Hall.

Thursday afternoon, December 6, the Ladies' Aid Society of the Modena Methodist Church will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. George Dusinberre.

Ascribed to Bret Harte

"Nifty" means good, very smart or stylish. It is said that the word was first used by Bret Harte about 1867. He spelled it "nifti" and explained that it was formed from "magnificent."

SAUGERTIES MANSION AT MALDEN CHURCH SERVICE.

Members of the Saugerties Masonic lodge attended the Malden Methodist Church Sunday evening to hear the Rev. Mark H. Sharples, pastor preach on "The Spirit of Fellowship." He presented the theme to a large congregation in an interesting manner. The Rev. J. V. Wemple of Saugerties assisted the pastor and offered prayer. Several numbers were sung by Francis V. Ruether, Edmund Burhaas, Albert Smith and Arthur York in a very pleasing manner.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Nov. 26 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets.) The season's initial carload of tomatoes from Mexico arrived on the local market today. The stock was unattractive and met a very poor sale at $1 @ $2 per box containing approximately 30 pounds. California tomatoes also varied greatly in quality and wholesaled within the price range of 50c @ $2 for a similar container. Florida tomatoes in carriers of six four-quart baskets peddled out at $2.50 @ $3.

Price changes were few and small on western New York white Danish cabbage. Arrivals were moderate and the demand fair. Most of the jobbing business on bulk stock was consummated at $50 per ton. South Carolina late crop Wakefield cabbage enhanced hands at $2 per one and one-half bushel hamper.

White potato trading was slow, possibly on account of the rainy weather. Supplies were moderate. Estate round white potatoes realized chiefly $2 per 180 pounds while Maine Green Mountains brought $2.15 @ $2.40.

Supplies of western New York celery were moderate. The market was a trifle weaker with the demand less active. Offerings in the rough, packed in two-thirds crates, commanded $2.75 @ $3.50 on the good to fancy. The poor to ordinary ranged from $1 to $2.50. California celery brought $6 @ $7.50 per large crate.

The market on state apples and pears was without any noticeable change, particularly on fancy large fruit of most kinds. U. S. Grade No. 1, 2 1/2 inch Baldwins peddled out at $4.50 @ $5.50 per barrel; McIntoshes at $19 @ $11.50 and Rhode Island greenings at $5.25 @ $6. Kieffer pears sold at $4.50 @ $6 per barrel.

Lesson in the Stars
To fill the mind with wonder and awe, look at the stars. To obtain a view of God and of the real man, let one "cast the cumbling load" of one's petty self and one's small desires, and see the spectacle of the starry heavens and the mind of man aright. Then, indeed, will wonder and awe and praise that are true prayer fill the thought.—Minneapolis Journal.

CHILDREN OF MARY OF ST. PETER'S CHURCH

Every member of the Children of Mary of St. Peter's Church is expected to receive Holy communion at the 8 o'clock Mass on Sunday and attend the regular monthly meeting on Monday night at 7:45. Very important business will be transacted at this meeting, which is the last of the year. The month of the patronal feast of the Sodality is December and every member is reminded to do honor to the Blessed Lady.

Since the feast of the Immaculate Conception occurs on a Saturday this year, the annual reception of new members into the Sodality will be held on the Eve of the Feast, which is the first Friday, December 7. All the sodalists and particularly those to be received into the society will go to holy communion on both Friday and Saturday. Preparations for the services of reception will be made at the regular monthly meeting on December 3.

Pre-Thanksgiving Supper at Y. W.

The usual Wednesday night supper of the Y. W. Business Girls' Club was held at the Y. W. on Henry street this week and in spite of the pending holiday was well attended. All who were present had an unusually good time. Having compassion on those who usually so generously serve on the supper committees with Thanksgiving dinners to provide, "hot-dog" sandwiches, delicious potato salad, pickles, crullers and coffee served picnic fashion, reduced the service of a good supper to the minimum. Then the girls played a unique Thanksgiving game that brought out a large amount of initiative and cleverness and called forth shouts of laughter. Next Wednesday evening the girls will make their arrangements for their coming Christmas party for underprivileged children.

Flatbush-Lake Katrine Home Bureau

The next regular meeting of the Flatbush-Lake Katrine Home Bureau will be held on Tuesday afternoon, December 4, at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. C. M. Ducker. Miss Nance will have charge of the meeting which will be a tie and dye demonstration. This promises to be a very interesting and useful lesson, especially for the making of pretty and useful Christmas gifts. All members are asked to be present and visitors are welcome.

In early Seventeenth century England nearly 1,000 men, women and children were hanged each year.

New Hampshire is taking steps to drain its coast marshes, where 11 species of mosquitoes are found.

A dog doubles its weight in the first eight days of life, whereas a baby takes six months to double its weight.

Mrs. Mary B. Cottrill is the new manager of the largest and most exclusive apartment hotel in Washington.

The Seventeenth-century Hotel de Lauzun has been bought by the city of Paris for $160,000 to give the Carnavalet museum more space.

An important new lighthouse has been built on a coral island in the Philippines to guide shipping in transit between Hongkong, Manila and Australia.

Fifty-Fifty Between Thief and Financier

A. E. Fiklin, New York financier, told a story at a dinner in celebration of his purchase for $200,000 of a seat on the stock exchange.

"The improvement in financial morals is almost unbelievable," Mr. Fiklin said. "I'll tell you a story that Tom Lawson used to tell about the days of frenzied finance."

"Once upon a time a bank robber was interrupted in the midst of his delicate work by the sound of approaching footsteps."

"The bank robber put down his acetylene drill softly. He pressed his gloved hand—gloved to obviate fingerprints—to his thumping heart. Then the door opened, and a beautiful old gentleman with white side whiskers, wearing a long black frock coat, appeared."

"Who are you, sir?" said the old gentleman sternly.

"I'm Buster Bill, the safe cracker, was the terse reply, 'and if you want to be bored full of holes like a Swiss cheese—'

"But the old gentleman gave a cry of joy. He advanced with outstretched hand."

"Oh, sir," he said, "I am the president of this institution, and I was afraid you were an examiner or inspector or something. But you are only Buster Bill, a mere burglar, eh? Oh, thank heaven for that! I'm sure you and I between us will be able to come to an arrangement which will be more than satisfactory to our depositors."

"The two men shook hands cordially. Then they went at the safe together."

Twain Went Out With Comet, as He Wished

While delivering a lecture on astronomy a year before his death, Samuel Clemens had said:

"I came in with Halley's comet in 1835. It is coming again next year, and I expect to go out with it. It will be the greatest disappointment of my life if I don't go out with Halley's comet. The Almighty said, no doubt: 'Now, here are these two unaccountable freaks; they came in together, they must go out together.' Oh! I am looking forward to that."

We know now that Mark Twain was not to be disappointed. Wednesday night, April 20, 1910, Halley's comet, the mysterious messenger of his birth year, shone clearly in the sky in its perihelion. And during the following evening Mark Twain died.

Summer's Extension.

Indian summer is a name applied to a short season of pleasant weather which occurs in the Central and Atlantic coast states usually during the months of October and November, but more rarely in December. Indian summer is characterized by an almost cloudless sky, calm or light air, hazy atmosphere, and a mild temperature in the daytime after cool at night. This period may last two or three weeks and may occur two or three times during a season. The theory has been advanced that early settlers may have given the bright warm days of autumn the name of Indian summer because it was as goodly as the Indians in their war palaces. Another idea is that at this season the Indians often went to war because the bright autumn colors served as camouflage for them. There is no actual record of the use of the term until 1771, when it was in general use throughout the Atlantic states.

Obscure Poets.

A friend sends me a cutting from a recent issue of an English news paper that has an oddity all its own. In a column of literary gossip occurs the following: "An obscure American poet once said, 'Lives of great men all remind us we may make our lives sublime' (for words to that effect). I would rather say: 'Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime only if we organize and discipline our mental and physical outfit.' It does not quite scan, but it is better sense." Which reminds me that an obscure English poet once wrote: "To be or not to be, that is the question" (for words to that effect). I would (not) rather say: "To be or not to be, that is the question only when you are not thinking of something else." It does not quite scan, but it makes no better sense.—William Lyons Phelps in Scribner's.

Toads Are Valuable

The United States government says that every toad is worth $24. Therefore a wise gardener will protect the toads, according to Nature Magazine. Toads are the night watchmen of the garden and are busy devouring cutworms and beetles which hide during the day. Birds carry on the insect war during the day and toads by night.

Gorillas

Male gorillas usually exceed 6 feet in height when standing upright. The female is smaller, measuring about 4 1/2 feet. The weight of a gorilla varies according to the different localities. A fair average, however, is 200 pounds.

Commission Calls
Legal Laxity Peril
To Virginia Oyster

Virginia's important oyster industry is threatened with extinction, partly because of non-enforcement of laws, a special legislative commission says. Many tongs working in the oyster beds of Chesapeake Bay (below) give a livelihood to a large shore population. Above are shown piles of oyster shells at one of the packing plants along the bay.

London Institution
The popular concert, more familiarly known as the "Monday and Saturday Pops," owed their origin to some miscellaneous concerts given in the early days of the old St. James' hall, which stood at the back of the Quadrant between Regent street and Piccadilly, London, England. A preliminary series of three concerts took place during the cattle show week in December, 1853.

Riches in Waste
We hear plenty of the waste of riches, but the riches of waste proves a more fascinating subject. If all the 12,000,000 tons of white paper we use in this country every year could be made of corn stalks—as probably they will be some day—there would still be corn stalks left. And it is said by chemists that there are nearly 75,000,000 tons of wood and sawmill waste that can be reclaimed.—Exchange.

THE REVIVAL OF COTTON AND LINEN OUTSTANDING AT MOMENT

New York—A smock with a Russian ancestry hardly can fail to be decorative. It presents an ideal sort of costume for the hostess who plays an active part in today's festivities, for it may be slipped on over one's frock. Brightly patterned black or colored sateen is a newer note than crepe for such a smock, and the collar is calculated to add distinction and lift such a smock into a class superior to the more ordinary type.

One hails with delight the news that designers of cottons have realized the importance of eye appeal to the extent of creating modern and effective prints. The cotton frock is no longer the poor relation of the wardrobe, and refuses to stay in the kitchen, even in the home. Many southern wardrobes are gay with bright, crisp cottons, and with charming dainty voiles sheer enough to be mistaken for chiffon. There are also smartly tailored, sleeveless pique frocks, trimly belted and designed for bright southern mornings. These frocks come under the sports category and are a refreshing note. The much heralded cravat type of silk, sponsored by Chanel at the Paris openings, is reflected in some of the better cotton collections. Allover patterns similar to those shown in silk are being launched in cottons with every expectation of their being successful.

The Russian Smock is the Inspiration for a Tea Smock of Printed Sateen. The Bands, Which Are Set in the Sleeves and Constitute the Cuffs, High Collar and Pocket Tops, Are of Light Blue, Repeating the Tone of the Pattern, Which is a Blue and White Leaf Design on a Dark Blue Background.

Dimity and batiste are materials on the high road to southern triumphs. These two are printed and in small allover patterns, several of which are conventionalized flower and leaf motifs.

Linen shows promise also for southern wear.

American Legion Old Clothes Dance

Members of Kingston Post No. 127, American Legion, and their friends who expect to enjoy an evening of fun at the old clothes dance to be run by Post Activities Chairman Jerry Martin Monday, December 3, are busy doing up antiquities to wear to the event.

According to talk at Legionnaire gatherings in the Post rooms every one so far has found something to wear that will bring dancers back over a period of many years. The ladies, shirts and lady friends of service men who plan on attending have also announced that their costumes will be in harmony with the customs of their country.

Jerry Martin is one of the busiest of busy men who have connections with the Legion. His old clothes dance is keeping him on the jump, but he likes it and contemplates furnishing one of the pleasantest times ever held in the Memorial Building on West O'Reilly street. The hall will be appropriately decorated for the dance Monday night.

Odd Creatures Found in Subterranean Life

Subterranean animal life presents many curious features. The life of the animals of the caves is unique. The subterranean forms of life develop, reproduce and die entirely without sunlight. Among such forms of life there is none of the mammalian form, except a species of rat; and there is no cave fish. Thus, the life of the subterranean animals requires much enlightenment.

The greater abundance and variety of this life is not in grottoes with underground rivers. Usually the subterranean life resembles the general types of the country. It has entered the caves and there become acclimated, undergoing curious adaptive modifications. So it happens that we generally find, in modified forms, the life of our own time. In some caverns, however, there seem to be disclosed the remains of an ancient animal life that has everywhere else disappeared from the terrestrial rivers, living only in the caverns.

The creatures of modern species that have adapted themselves to underground conditions are sharply differentiated from the dwellers in the light. Their skin is of a whitish hue or else transparent. The eye atrophies or altogether disappears. The optic nerve and the optic lobes vanish, leaving the brain extraordinarily modified. Other organs develop in proportion: those of hearing, smell and touch become enlarged to a degree. Sensitive hairs, long and coarse, appear all over the body.

Din of Modern Battle Ended Drum's Prestige

It was France which took the initiative, years ago, in doing away with the drum. Other nations followed the example, and long before the World war the drum had disappeared.

It still figures in military bands, of course, but it plays no more part in warfare than the harp or the violin.

Thus ended a long and honorable military career. The Greeks ascribed the invention of the drum to Bacchus. The Egyptians charged behind a rank of drummers. Pizarro found drums in South American temples. The Puritans of New England used the drum as a church bell and as a call to arms against invading Indians.

The heroic drummer boy was the stock figure of authors from Pliny down to Kipling.

But France pointed out to the world that the drum was a serious encumbrance to marching, that rain spoiled it, that its calls could not be heard in the din of battle, that it took two years to train an efficient drummer, and that the instrument's abandonment would release many young men for active service.

The drum was accordingly done away with.—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Last Fighting King
The last king of England to lead an army into battle was George II, who headed his forces at the battle of Dettingen.

Trade Problem Looms As Hoover Visits Chile

Chile, undergoing social and economic changes and now trying to solve its nitrate export problem, will be an important stop on President-elect Hoover's good-will tour. Above is the harbor at Valparaiso, where the American party will land. The president's palace (lower left) at Santiago, the Chilean capital, is the home of President Carlos Ibanez and his wife (lower right).

Nothing Like New Blood Treatment To Knock Out Rheumatic Pains

Name is Alkine and Local Druggist Offers Every Sufferer Chance To Try It On Money Back Plan.

For ten years I have suffered horrible torture from rheumatism that I contracted when in the trenches. I didn't know what a good night's sleep was—and how I lived through the days of agony is beyond me. I couldn't get a bit of help no matter what I tried, but when the announcement was made that Alkine conquered rheumatism pains through the blood—that sounded like sense to me and I tried it. I tell you I'm like a new man—not a sign or twinge of pain. Alkine has opened up a different world to me.

You'll have to clear the blood of excess acids and poisons if you expect to get lasting relief from rheumatism pains and aches. Alkine supplies marvelous elements that act to neutralize and carry the poisons through natural means. The relief, the benefit you get from one bottle, should be enough to convince you. Get it today and remember that McBride (2) Store will refund your money if you are not absolutely satisfied. Sold at McBride's (2) Store and all good druggists. Get a bottle today.

New York.—The familiar school-book teaching that water boils in the rare air of high altitudes more easily than at sea level is en route to Havana in the brain of Georges Claude, famous scientist, as the basic principle of a spectacular project to make sea water produce electric power.

Claude proposes to use the difference in temperature between warm gulf stream surface water and deep, cold water to run large electric turbines in a vacuum.

Fantastic is the term applied sometimes to Claude's plan, but it does not seem quite so fantastic when it is realized that the neon lights, the red tube lights, which are spreading in business signs throughout the United States, are Claude's invention, or that he is one of the promoters of nitrogen from the air, of synthetic ammonia and of a dissolved acetylene process that markets about $10,000,000 worth annually in the United States.

Principle Not Questioned.

Engineers and scientists do not question that Claude's machine will operate, for he demonstrated on a laboratory scale in Europe, but they doubt whether it can produce cheaply enough.

Claude's formula for invention is "simplicity." Don't spend time, he has said, over methods that are intricate. His sea-water generator is easy to understand.

Last April in Liege, Belgium, he took waste warm water of a little over 50 degrees temperature from the Ougree-Murhaya blast furnaces beside the Meuse river. This water ran into a chamber, sealed so that it was part of an airtight connection with a housing containing a turbine. An air pump created a vacuum in the chamber and turbine housing. The result was that the warm water boiled. The only outlet for the steam thus generated was against the vanes of the turbine, which turned as the steam forced through.

The air pump was stopped, which normally would have allowed the whole housing to fill with enough steam to destroy the vacuum. To prevent this Claude turned a spray of cold water into the steam cloud that had already passed through the turbine, thereby condensing the steam and maintaining the vacuum.

The cold water for the condensation came from the Meuse river at a temperature of about 50 degrees. Electric power produced by the turbine was estimated at about 40 kilowatts, sufficient perhaps to operate a small factory.

Claude's theory is that the warm tropical surface waters, which are about 80 degrees, will supply the steam in a partial vacuum and that deep, cold water may be drawn up for condensation. He is credited with saying it is feasible to drop a cold water pipe 1,000 feet if necessary, and he believes that for success the difference in temperature need not be excessive.

Drawbacks Are Cited.

Drawbacks pointed out by doubters are that the mild steam, lacking the power of fire-made steam, must be produced in such quantities that the size and expense of the sea plant may be excessive. And the plant must first of all supply the power for its own functioning, such as pumping deep water.

But Claude's confidence is expressed in a remark that he believes he can harness power equal to a large waterfall. He arrived in New York in mid-October en route for Havana. His associate in the power project is Paul Boucherot, French engineer.

Students Ban "Spying"
in Honor Examinations

Austin, Texas.—University of Texas students decree they are not their brothers' keepers in the matter of honesty in examinations.

By vote of the student body the "spy" clause of the pledge of honor, which has been in operation since 1885, has been abolished.

The honor system now is based on a declaration by the student that he or she has neither given nor received aid on examinations and certain written work.

That part of the pledge in which the student said he had not seen others giving or receiving aid was struck out by 1,100 votes of the 1,404 cast in the referendum of the question.

Old Gray Mare Eats
Master's Prize Spuds

Rice Lake, Wis.—An old gray mare on the farm of James Hansen, vice president of the Wisconsin Potato Growers' association, has lost all former prestige with its master by an act of gluttony. Hansen had carefully selected an exhibit of potatoes for the state meeting here and the horse got down on her knees and ate them all. Now Hansen philosophically says he has a prize in the old gray mare—but he would rather have the potatoes.

Yellow Jackets Defeat Strong Watervliet Team

Local Players Given Severe Test In Contest With Heavy Upstate Eleven and Win Game By One-point Margin—Each Scores Touchdown In Third Period—West Point Service Club Here Sunday.

Kingston's Yellow Jackets defeated the Watervliet Merriams 7-6 Thanksgiving Day at the Kingston Fair Grounds in one of the toughest football battles ever fought at the local park. A goodly number of gridiron patrons watched the tilt with much interest and undoubtedly will return to the Fair Grounds Sunday to see the Kingston boys do their best against the West Point Service Club.

The gridirers fought like tigers throughout the first half of the game without a tally. Then came the big moment for Yellow Jacket fans in the third session. The locals battled their way down to Watervliet's five yard line and Milliken, who entered the fray during the third quarter, nabbed a forward pass tossed by Stanley Colvin, back of the goal line. Harry Scheffel scored the Yellow Jackets' after-touchdown point by receiving Jole Hoffman's forward beyond the last white stripe.

Merriam players were urged by Kingston's tally and in the same quarter Grady, husky backfielder of the Watervliet team, picked up a fumble near Kingston's ten yard line and scored a touchdown for the upstater. The Merriams failed to tie the score when Jimmy Cassidy, Kingston center, blocked the after-touchdown boot. The score remained 7-6 for the balance of the game.

First Quarter.
Howard received the Merriams' kickoff and ran from the 33 yard line to the 42 marker. On the next play a Yellow Jacket back crossed the 50 yard stripe for a first down, the one and only made by Kingston in the first quarter. Jole Hoffman took the ball on the following maneuver and while trying to skirt an end, was dragged down behind the line for an eight yard loss. He lugged the leather for approximately ten yards on the play that followed, but while trying to keep up their march for the Merriams' goal the Yellow Jackets lost the ball on downs.

The Watervliet boys took the ball with plenty of vim and tore off big gains by line plunging at the outset of their march. They registered a first down on three maneuvers in which Morrow, right halfback and Foley, quarterback, figured heavily. The Watervliet men bucked the Kingston line with determination, but lost the ball on downs after Jole Hoffman tackled a ball carrier in neat fashion.

The Yellow Jackets took the oval and started from their 40 yard line on their intended march for a score. They were aided in their progress when the Merriams were penalized five yards for offside. Then came a setback for the locals. O'Brien intercepted a forward pass and ran the ball from the Yellow Jackets' 45 yard line to their own 25 yard marker. The Watervliet team, however, found the Kingston line too strong for them to plug and gave up the ball on downs before the 20 yard stripe could be reached.

Kingston managed to reach their own 45 yard line where they tried the forward passing game. It did not work so well. Grady nabbed Winter's throw and tore off about 25 yards in the direction of the Kingston goal before Winter caught him in spectacular fashion. The quarter ended with the score tied at zero.

Second Quarter.
Stanley Colvin intercepted a Merriam pass at the outset of the second quarter and raced from his own 35 yard line down to his opponents' 20 yard stripe. Several attempts to break through the Watervliet line failed and Shultz punted the leather. It was caught by a Merriam, who made a neat run of about 25 yards before he was tackled. This run brought the ball up to the upstater's 42 yard line. They plugged the Kingston line for a first down, the only one of the quarter, but lost the ball on downs at Kingston's 45 yard line.

Shultz punted. The boot was caught by a Merriam on his 42 yard marker and carried to the center of the field. After a loss on the next play the Watervliet men got to Kingston's 15 yard line where they gave up the oval to the Yellow Jackets. Shultz punted again, the boot was blocked, but in the scuffle Kingston recovered the ball. The locals lost on the next play and finally yielded the oval to Watervliet on a fumble. The upstater made the middle of the gridiron on a forward pass, then punted the ball to the Jackets' 20 yard line. Winter got under the ball but it bounced out of his arms, only to be fallen on by a Merriam player. The quarter ended after several line plunges and passes failed to bring the Watervliet team to Kingston's goal.

Fourth Quarter Brings Scores.
With the score still 9-0 the Yellow Jackets kicked off at the start of the second half. The Merriam receiver was spilled on his 20 yard line. Then came a penalty that put the upstater five yards deeper in their own territory and a fumble gave the Yellow Jackets the ball eight yards from the goal line they wanted to cross. They went nearly five yards on line plays then a forward pass, Colvin to Milliken, who went into the game at the outset of the third quarter, put the ball over the goal line. The Yellow Jackets raised their six points to seven, when Harry Scheffel caught a forward heaved by Jole Hoffman, for the after touchdown point. The Yellow Jackets kicked off and the Merriams lugged the ball from their 30 yard line to the center of the field by line bucks. Then the upstater punted to Kingston's one yard line where Hoffman fell on the ball. Shultz punted back to his 40 yard stripe. The Merriams worked the ball down to Kingston's 15 yard line where the Yellow Jackets gained the oval. It was a costly acquisition for the locals as they fumbled. Grady of the Watervliet eleven picked up the oval and crossed the last white line for a Merriam touchdown. The upstater kicked for the after touchdown point, but Jimmy Cassidy, block the boot. His work prevented the Merriam from tying the score and gave Kingston the contest by the one-point margin.

The Merriams kicked off and Johny Clonore tore off 15 yards after receiving the ball. Milliken caught a pass that was good for about five yards, then after a line plunge the quarter ended with the ball on Merriams' 43 yard line.

It was only a short time after the fourth quarter started that the Yellow Jackets made a first down, but then suffered a considerable loss of ground and the ball. The Merriams carried the ball down to Kingston's 25 yard line and then lost it on downs. The Yellow Jackets failed to work the sphere outside their own 40 yard line. Near the end of the quarter the upstater got the leather and had it on the Jackets' 10 yard line but failed to get it any nearer the goal line. The Yellow Jackets brought the ball near the 30-yard line and the game ended as Colvin caught a pass which would have resulted in a big gain.

Senior Sunday School League

The Senior Sunday School League started to play its first round of games this season at the Y. M. C. A. court Wednesday night. The Redemptors beat the Trinity squad handsily 15-0. The Trinity team was composed of 15, and the St. James team took over the Clinton's place in the night. The most interesting game of the night, the final tally was 15-0.

In the first game the Redemptors ran away with the Trinity team from the opening whistle. Throughout the first quarter the Trinity team was held scoreless and it wasn't until the second quarter that the Redemptors' opponents scored. Bailey and McKee both made their free tries good and this was the only points they registered in the first half. The tally when the first period ended was 30 to 2 in favor of the Redemptors.

The first field goal of the Trinity team was made by Thompson and following this Bailey scored and Thompson again found the hoop from the center of the court for a two pointer. This summed up all the Trinity squad's field goals for the entire game. The Redemptors on the other hand scored heavily and when the final whistle blew, the tally was Redemptors 15, Trinity 2.

In the Presbyterian-Port Ewen tilt, the Presbyterians rolled up the highest score that any team has yet collected on the "Y" court this year. In the early part of the game the winners sunk baskets from all angles of the court while Port Ewen was held to only one point in the first quarter. In the second period Elting Timney was the only Port Ewen man to score. He came through with a field goal which made the score 39 to 3 when the half ended.

In the second game the St. James was given a close battle by the Clintons. The St. James quintet held the lead throughout the entire game, but in the second quarter the Clintons at one time threatened to take the lead when they came within two marks of the St. James team's lead.

The floor and pass work of the St. James team was superior to that of the Clintons and it seemed to tell the story for when the battle ended the score was 23-17 in favor of St. James.

CADETS WILL SEE ARMY-STANFORD GAME

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Proceeding on Friday by the Army football squad, the entire Corps of Cadets, under command of Lt. Col. C. B. Hodges, Commandant, will leave

West Point at 9:35 a. m. Saturday to attend the Army-Stanford game in New York city. The Corps will cross the Hudson river by boat to Cold Spring, opposite West Point, where they will entrain in two sections. Arriving at High Bridge at 12:05 and 12:10 p. m., they will detain and march to the Yankee Stadium. Directly after the game the Corps will be free until midnight, the hour of assembly at Weehawken for the return trip.

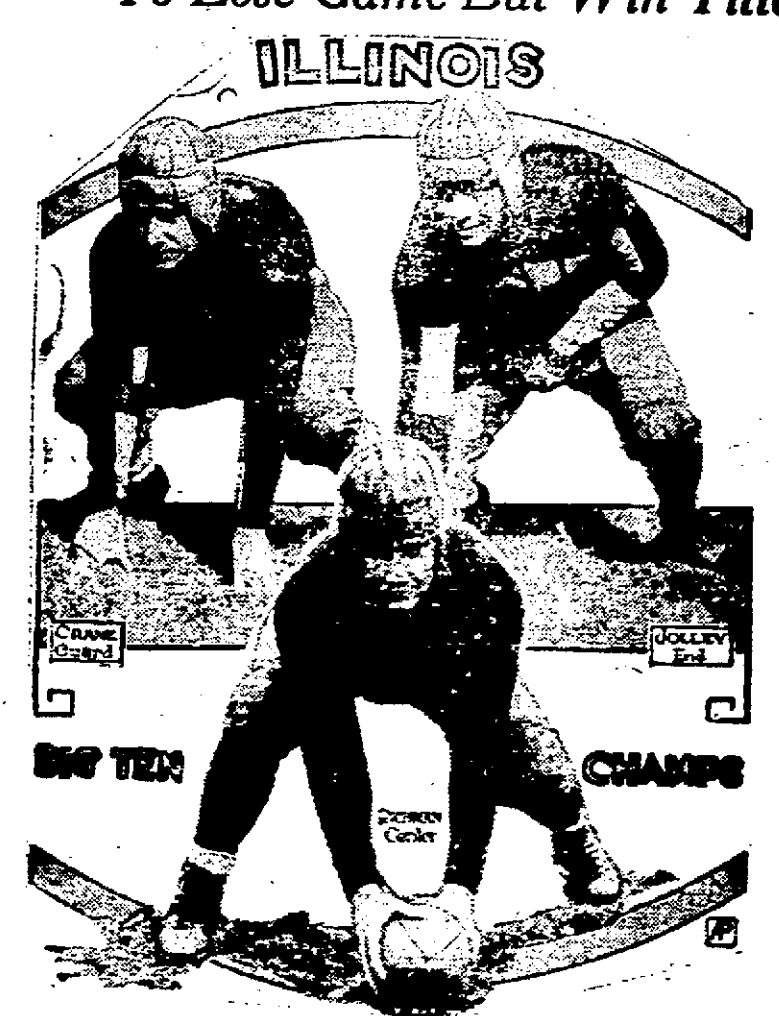

Friday afternoon the football squad will depart for New York, staying overnight at Travers Island as guests of the New York Athletic Club.

Officers assigned to duty for the trip with the Corps are Majors T. A. Terry and C. K. Nulsen, commanding the first and second sections. Captains C. H. Armstrong and R. W. Beasley, transportation officers, and Captain T. B. Collins and Major J. D. Moreno, medical officers.

Numbers of first-classmen have been granted week-end leaves to spend in New York. They will not report with the major body of cadets at the midnight rendezvous at Weehawken.

Old Canal
Records indicate that the famous Grand canal of China was one of the earliest canals in the world. It was built about 540 B. C. and was approximately 100 miles long.

Illini Third Big Ten Team To Lose Game But Win Title

Illinois in 1923 did what the Illini of 1919 and the Wolverines of 1925 did—lost a conference game but took the championship. The three rugged linemen above were a big factor in the success of the 1923 Illini. Crane is the 1929 captain.

Chandlers Face Hard Opposition

Frank N. Hinds, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. and coach of the Chandler basketball team, is preparing his courtiers for the hottest contest of their career against the much heralded Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. team Saturday night at the local "Y."

The tilt is slated for 8 o'clock and it is planned to start promptly. Lovers of good basketball games are advised to be at the "Y" gym on the dot if they desire to witness a stiff court argument from the beginning to end. Then, too, those who like to see the games from the front rows will have to get a seat early for one of the largest gatherings of spectators ever to attend a game is anticipated for the Saturday night battle.

The Springfielders are in the best of shape according to a letter recently sent to the Chandler coach with the following team roster: Harold Hoag, former University of Vermont player, left forward; Olley Jais, former high school star, right forward; E. B. Oppenheim, who has a good record according to F. N. "Pop" Hinds, himself, center; Harley Shastany, former Commerce High School star, left guard; Phil Shea, high school star of several years back and one time member of Cornell freshman team right guard. There will be plenty of relief men with the Springfield team according to information sent the Chandler management.

Most of the second string men are capable of holding their own with the first team, it is said. Coach Hinds will send his regular lineup into the fray.

RED SHIELDS LOSE AS JOYCE FAILS TO SCORE

By holding Dan Joyce, shooting ace of the Red Shields, scoreless, the Ellenville Wanderers registered a 33-22 victory over the Salvationists at Ellenville Thursday night. Traphagen, who scored 15 points himself, the highest individual tally of the game, was assigned the task of guarding Joyce and did it to perfection.

Difficult Task To Select Grid Champion in East

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—It began to look as if the east will have to do without a football champion this year. In 1927 the experts got out of difficulties by nominating Yale and Pittsburgh as joint holders of the crown. At the moment it would seem that six or seven teams should be rated about equally and to make that many to one throne would make the royal perch a bit uncomfortable for all.

Of course, there's still a chance that tomorrow's few but important battles will develop a ruler upon whom the large majority of fans and experts can agree. If the Cadets return back Stanford, most observers will be ready to toss out the Notre Dame game and award the section title to Army. But there seems to be considerable doubt, even in the east, whether the Cadets can match the tricky game Glenn Warner has taught his Stanford warriors.

Then Boston College, in the event the Eagles defeat Holy Cross, may be considered. The Eagles have escaped defeat and tie so far although their schedule was none too heavy. Barring their defeat of the Navy early in the season, the Eagles will have considerable trouble pointing to a triumph over a first rate opponent.

Georgetown, which dropped its only game to Carnegie Tech, may strengthen its championship position by stopping the hitherto unchecked University of Detroit eleven at Detroit.

The outstanding features of the Thanksgiving Day program were New York University's complete rout by the Oregon Aggies, 25 to 13, and Pennsylvania's annihilation of Cornell, 49 to 0.

After New York's University triumph over Carnegie Tech last Saturday, critics were ready to award the title and everything else to the violent Vikings, but the Pacific coast boys romped through the New Yorkers' weakened line, practically at will. Ken Strong, the Violet high scoring back, broke through for one touchdown, but in general the Beavers kept him bottled up all afternoon.

With Paul Scull making a glorious exit from the collegiate gridiron, Penn smashed Cornell into one overwhelming defeat at Philadelphia and now are ready to dispute titles claimed by any other eleven. The Red and Blue lost only to the Navy this season, and numbered among its victims, Harvard, Penn State at Columbia. Scull personally accounted for four touchdowns against Cornell and kicked seven points after touchdowns.

After three ties in a row, Brown finally managed to gain the edge over Colgate in their annual Thanksgiving Day struggle, but the margin was none too much. Ed Kevorkian, field goal in the first period was the deciding factor in the Bruins' 15 to 13 victory.

Touchdowns by Baysinger and Stevens in the third and fourth periods gave Syracuse a 14 to 6 verdict over Columbia, the first major triumph the orange scored this year. Columbia, on the other hand, won't over the season without a single victory over an outstanding foe.

With fast-stepping Uansa in the leading role, Pitt's Panthers administered the usual defeat to Penn State 26 to 10. Uansa scored two touchdowns, one of them from a Penn State kick off, to aid the Panthers in their seventh straight victory over the Nittany Lions.

West Virginia scored two touchdowns in the first half and then closed to this advantage to down Washington and Jefferson, 14-0. A touch down in the closing minutes of play enabled Bucknell to tie Temple, 7 to 7 at Lewisburg.

The Intercollegiate card between mid-west and east ended in a draw Tufts was defeated by Butler, 25 to 0. But Geneva conquered John Carroll of Cleveland, 19 to 12. A 25 to 6 verdict over Franklin and Marshall gave Gettysburg the eastern Pennsylvania inter-collegiate conference title. Schuylkill swamped Ursinus 54 to 6. Maryland conquered Johns Hopkins, 26 to 6. St. John's of Annapolis downed Penn Military, 15 to 0. Western Maryland overwhelmed Muhlenberg, 59 to 0, and Davis and Elkins romped through Salem, 65 to 0. West Virginia Wesleyan was beaten by Marshall, 13 to 7, and Vermont bowed to Springfield, 2 to 0.

Music and Talk At Mrs. Knauth's

Medical friends of Mrs. Knauth enjoyed her hospitality and a delightful and interesting musical program at her home on Albany street on Wednesday afternoon. In addition, Von Eugen Haile, the composer who now makes his home at Woodstock and whose songs were sung by Mrs. Knauth, was present.

The program opened with three songs sung by Mrs. Knauth who in addition delighted her hearers. Von Eugen was the composer of all three songs, the first, "Blue Bird," having a piano accompaniment which was played by Mrs. Chichester; the second, "Sanctuary," was accompanied solely by the violin, Mrs. Cumberly being the accompanist, and the third was an aria in ballad form from Mr. Haile's opera, "The Viola D'Amore." Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, who has won widespread recognition as a musical lecturer on such topics as "The Common Sense of Music," "Jazzmania," "Musical Analysis," "America's History in Popular Song," gave a miniature edition of "The Common Sense of Music," which was highly enjoyed by all present. It seemed particularly to delight the men in the audience. Being a musician as well as a lecturer on music, Dr. Spaeth who has a delicious sense of humor, illustrated many points in his talk at the piano and with clever illustrations, closing with an earnest appeal to all present to use their utmost influence and give such help as might be possible to give Kingston Community Concerts this season. Next Tuesday evening, he announced there would be a meeting of all who had been asked to act as associate members and as many more as would be willing for the sake of good concert members—it costs nothing—at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock.

After the program tea was served, Mrs. Knauth and Mrs. Cumberly presiding at the tea table.

Dated, Kingston, N. Y., November 24, 1928.

The Man Without an Overcoat

By LAURA E. MONTGOMERY

"SOME nerve, I'd say," came Jim Skinner's indignant voice. "I always expect a deposit from strangers, and you ask me to advance you $5 until the bank is open again. I may look green, stranger, but that's going too far. Run along and try the next town."

"Way, man, I used to live here. Any of the old neighbors will tell you I'm all—"

Daisy had lifted her head as the well-known voice fell upon her ears. "George," cried the girl, then stepped back shyly as she remembered the years of silence that lay between them.

The man crossed the dingy floor in a few rapid strides. "How are you?" he said. "I have had a streak of bad luck, and this hotel man seems to think I'm a dead beat. I intended to patronize his hotel for a few days—"

"Come up to our house," urged Daisy noting with pitiful eyes that, despite the rainy weather, he wore no overcoat. "Stay with us until you get rested up; mother will be delighted to see you again. Have you been abroad all this time?"

The man's face held an odd expression as he silently accompanied her up the soggy path. "You are sure your mother won't think I'm intruding?" he asked.

"Of course not," returned Daisy.

Mrs. Dorrance welcomed him as placidly as though she had seen him yesterday. "Sit up near the fire and get dry," she smiled, "we've got an extra good dinner today. I'm glad I made deep apple pie. I remember how you used to like them." She turned the dampers in the big glowing stove so that a wave of heat streamed out at the drenched couple, and bustled off to the kitchen.

Daisy, now that they were alone, was seized with an agony of shyness. What would he think of her for interfering and dragging him off to her home? She glanced up from under her red-brown lashes only to meet fully his gaze which did not waver.

"This is mighty pleasant, Daisy, although my homecoming is a little different than I had planned it. On the train I fell asleep and the man who had shared my seat got off at Dixon and stole my overcoat and my billfold. The bank is closed, as it's a holiday, and tomorrow is Sunday. That is why—"

"Don't worry," interrupted Daisy, wishing to save him humiliation, "you can get work here and we'll love to have you make us a visit. Perhaps father will need some one in the store—"

Again the queer expression flitted over his bronzed face, but a quick flashing smile replaced this so swiftly that she fancied she had imagined it. "Tell me, Daisy, did you wait for me?"

George, studying her ingenuous blush, felt a sudden warmth in his heart. This homecoming, although narrated at first by his encounter with the sneak thief, was better than he had pictured it when on the long journey. "There is no place like home," he said at last, bringing his chair across the Ingrain carpet so that he was near enough to pick up the ringless hand, "will you marry me right away?"

The tall clock in the corner ticked on busily and the girl radiantly imagined that the heavy tones were laughing. During the years of almost hopeless waiting she had thought the ticks were solemn, had fancied that the pallid, moonfaced clock stared down at her pityingly. Now she knew that it had waited with her for the joy that had come just as she had become resigned to the loss of her old sweetheart. "Yes," she said just as she heard her father's step in the kitchen.

"And so some one cleaned you out on the train," cried genial Tom Dorrance. "Never mind; I can give you a temporary place in the store until you get turned around. Guess Daisy will make me," added the father, who had come to certain conclusions as he regarded his girl's flushed face and radiant eyes.

George looked embarrassed. "I tried to explain, but she shut me off every time." He glanced over at her quickly. "I have plenty of money. I milled some drafts to the bank from Liverpool, but the bank is closed today. You see, I plan to buy a house right away for Daisy. I couldn't decide between the old Sawyer's residence—his hearers gasped: the Sawyer place was the show place of the town, large and handsome, with several acres of ground and a hothouse for roses—"and a brand new bungalow right in the village. So I thought I'd wait and let her do the deciding."

Tom Dorrance rallied. The son-in-law had welcomed so heartily was a wealthy man. "Well," he chuckled, "Daisy thought you lacked even an overcoat, but I guess she won't hesitate long over the choice. The Sawyer place," he added wonderingly.

"No," cried Daisy. "I shan't. I'd like to have the tiny, brand-new bungalow right down here among our friends."

And while George beamed over her legal choice, Jim Skinner, the new innkeeper, was raucously relating the tale of the stranger who had indignantly asked him to advance five dollars until the bank was open. "He didn't even have an overcoat," he ended shrilly.

ROSENDALE GRANGERS HONOR REV. CAMERON'S MEMORY

Rosendale Grange, No. 1591, P. of H., held its regular meeting Tuesday evening with a large attendance. The meeting opened with singing and prayer, salutation to the flag, roll call and reading of minutes, etc. A beautiful memorial service for worthy Chaplain James G. Cameron, who has passed from this earth to a life beyond, was carried out very impressively under the direction of Henry Mollenhauer, newly elected chaplain. Prayer was offered with singing of appropriate selections. A brief tribute was then paid to one well known and beloved by all, who was an outstanding example toward the ideal which he held up. "May his spirit guide us by the wisdom and Christian life." The Grange attended the services at All Saints' Church, assisting the choir in singing. Beautiful floral tributes from the Grange, also from Pomona Grange, were presented in memory of one they loved.

Among contributors of floral offerings were the following: The Misses Merchant, cousins; Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, Hackensack, N. J.; the William Snelling family, Poughkeepsie; the archdeaconry of the Hudson; St. John's Parish, High Falls; St. Thomas Church, Rifton; Active Hose Co., No. 1, Rosendale; All Saints' Guild and congregation; the Moore family, Little Namesake, James Moore, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krom and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Osterhondt, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Demarest, Ralph Leffew and family, and many more friends.

Bad Disposition

A man or woman must have an extraordinary amount of ability, a tremendous capacity of mental production, to be forgiven a bad disposition. An irritable temper and bad manners are not to be excused in anybody except a politician, producing genius. You ought to be ashamed when you show the teeth of your temper or temperamental—Grove Parkman, in the Middle Ages.

Ancient French Town

Carcassonne is an actual city situated on the canal of the Midi in southern France. The Midi is one of the most beautiful waterways of France, over 100 miles being lined with magnificent towns. Carcassonne boasts a fortress which has stood for 15 centuries.

Not Preconceptions

"Manana" is not, says the Brooklyn Eagle, such a bad word as it's sometimes cracked up to be, and one gathers that the quick-witted modern Chileans, who are proud of being called the Tumbos of the South, have kept enough of the "manana" spirit to put off unnecessary worries till tomorrow, though they do essential tasks today.

Sardinian Long Peeped

The early history of Sardinia, in the Mediterranean sea, is unknown. This island contains many important prehistoric monuments belonging to the Bronze age, as many as 6,000 "nuraghi" being still traceable there. These houses were noted as curiosities during the Roman invasion of Sardinia, in the Fifth century B. C.

ELKS FIGHT DUEL ON GOLF COURSE

Battle for 15 Minutes After Sliced Ball Hits One of Them.

Jasper Park, Ark.—The golfing season at Jasper Park is officially closed, but Inspector Frere of the Royal Canadian mounted police is convinced that the course offers more varied excitement in its post-season aspect. Playing over the course recently Inspector Frere noticed two bull elk grazing at the timber's edge some hundred yards from the tee on the sixth fairway. Elk are a common sight on the Jasper Park course and their presence on the fairway aroused no more than a casual interest.

Golf Ball Hits Elk

Following his partner up to the tee, the inspector sliced his drive slightly. He watched the ball curve high into the air. It dropped down quickly, but not onto the fairway, nor yet into the timber. The report as it hit the farther of the two elk was quite audible back on the tee.

Then several things happened—and at once. That an inspector of the Royal Canadian mounted police had any hand in the indignity which he had suffered, never, apparently, entered into the calculations of the agitated elk. And besides Inspector Frere was too far away. The other elk was much closer. He was only, as a matter of fact, about 20 feet distant.

Engage in Combat

The second elk reared about to intercept an incomprehensible attack upon his midsection and the antlers of the two beasts became tightly locked, the fairway was torn up by their hoofs and, as Inspector Frere and his companion approached, the strenuous panting of the combatants could be heard.

The struggle was indecisive. It endured for about 15 minutes, with honors, if any, in the hands of the second elk—he whose midsection had been imperturbed. Their heads sagged, their antlers loosened, they commenced again to graze.

Canaries Found Best*in Detecting Mine Gas

Washington.—The canary bird has no peer as the detector of gas in mines, the United States bureau of mines has found after conducting experiments with chickens, rabbits, dogs, pigeons, mice and other animals.

White mice can be used if the canary is not available as both show visible effects of breathing dangerous gases long before human lungs are affected.

The advantage of the canary lies in the fact that it falls from its perch but revives quickly on being brought into fresh air. The birds seldom die from breathing the gas a short time, and can be overcome and revived many times in a few hours without harm.

Chickens, white mice, chickens, dogs, pigeons, sparrows, guinea pigs and rabbits collapsed in the order named when exposed to a small amount of carbon monoxide.

Rescue parties carry a test canary in carrying a mine believed to contain dangerous gases.

Hundred Parties of*Mappers Come Home

Washington.—Over a hundred surveying parties under the supervision of the geological survey are finishing up their work preparatory to returning to Washington within the next few weeks.

These parties, working in five different states, have mapped approximately 17,000 square miles of territory and have conducted various investigations into the mineral resources of the United States.

Officials in Washington always await with some anxiety the return of these parties for in past years they have made important discoveries which have had a marked effect on sources of raw material. Potash fields in Texas, and gold fields in Alaska are among the discoveries these parties have made in the past.

Some of the men have been living entirely by themselves in isolated spots for weeks at a time without communication with the outside world.

Plane Test Chamber*Attains 7-Mile Height

Washington.—The United States bureau of standards will possess the only aviation motor testing chamber in the world capable of reproducing in the laboratory flying conditions seven miles in the air upon completion of the bureau's present equipment now under way.

The improved chamber can be so regulated as to produce any desired conditions of temperature, density, air pressure and other vital factors affecting motor performance at any altitude at which planes can fly.

Gigolos in Trouble.

Paris, France.—Not content with making $50 a night with champagne and supper thrown in, gigolos, or professional dancing partners, have been doing things that caused police action. Seven recently were sent to jail for blackmail and other offenses. All now must carry police licenses, which are subject to revocation.

Eighty years is enough for anybody.—Deathbed statement of Mrs. Chas. Vinton, one hundred and ten, at Chicago.

I have never had any manager, political or otherwise, in my 14 years of public life, but Mrs. Schall.—Thomas D. Schall, blind senator from Minnesota.

Nine Cents in Change*Buys Farmer a Car

Stevens Point, Wis.—Having the exact change in hand when he went shopping for automobiles at a bargain sale gave Elmer Trickle, a farmer, a sedan for exactly nine cents.

A sales agency announced that the first person over twenty-one who tendered exactly nine cents on a designated day could drive away the sedan without additional charge. Trickle parked himself in the doorway at sunrise, but when the doors were thrown open at 10 a. m. another man pushed ahead of Trickle to the desk. The man offered a dime, but was told the car was to be sold for nine cents. Then Trickle stepped up and counted out nine pennies. He was given the automobile.

Nine Muses

There were nine muses in ancient mythology, these being: Calliope, epic poetry; Clio, history; Euterpe, lyric poetry; Melpomene, tragedy; Terpsichore, choral song and dance; Erato, love poetry; Polyhymnia, sacred poetry; Urania, astronomy, and Thalia, comedy.

Two members of the firm were discussing the case of a young man who, taken on through influence and boosted as a boy wonder, had flamed miserably. "The trouble with him," said one of them, "was that they fed him up too high."—New York Sun.

Skin Diseases Old

According to archeologists, our great-grandparents of thousands of years ago suffered severely from diseases of the skin, possibly caused by unsanitary surroundings and im- properly prepared foods.

New York, Nov. 30 (A).—A sweeping reaction in stock prices, inspired by the marking up of call and a wide-open break in Canadian Marconi on the curb market took place this afternoon after a wild outburst of bullish enthusiasm at the opening of the stock exchange had carried several issues up 5 to nearly 15 points.

Early gains quickly melted away under the flood of selling orders, and several of the high-priced specialties dipped 5 to nearly 20 points below Wednesday's final quotations.

The rise in call money followed the raising of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 in bank loans, presumably to meet the unusually heavy month-end disbursements. Call money has not been as high as 10 percent since October 1, when a similar month-end "squeeze" took place. While the high rate is regarded as temporary, bankers look for relatively firm rates until after the end of the year.

The break in Canadian Marconi was attributed to the statement of Sir Joseph Playfair, president of the company, that the stock was too high. It has been estimated that 1928 earnings will be only about two cents a share, and that the stock has been selling for 120 to 130.

It was a similar break in Bancitaly stock that started the drastic reaction in prices last June. Radio broke from an early high of 392 to 274. Wright Aeronautical dropped 10 points and Montgomery-Ward, Allied Chemical, Canadian Pacific, International Nickel and Yellow Truck fell 4 to 7 points below Wednesday's final quotations.

Selling of the last named was inspired by an official denial of the rumor that the General Motors truck business would be taken over by the Yellow Company. Midland Steel products preferred broke 18 1/2 points to 26 1/2.

In the early outburst of buying Russia Insurance rose up 14 1/2 points to 278, Packard Motors 12 1/2 to 143, New York Central 9 to 196 1/2 and Consolidated Gas 5 1/2 to 113, all new high records.

Ten per cent call money attracted a fresh inflow of funds into the market in mid-afternoon, but there was a good demand for funds at that figure.

Quotations given by Parker McElroy & Co., members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 129 Broadway, New York city, branch office, 260 Fair street.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full bottle of Allenburys, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with rheumatic pains, aches and twinges, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenburys has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished often in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the sufferer in many cases was almost helpless.

Fedrick's Drug Store and all good druggists have been authorized to guarantee it as above in every instance.

Speed of Falling Body.
An experiment was recently conducted to determine how fast a man falls when dropped from a great height. The velocity was found to be considerably lower than that deduced from the theory of falling bodies. There were no atmosphere, a man would fall 16 feet the first second; 64 feet in two seconds; 144 feet in four seconds; 256 feet in eight seconds, etc., the distance increasing as the square of the time. Due to the resistance of the air, however, there comes a time when the velocity is no longer increased. This is known as the "terminal velocity" and was found to be less than 200 miles an hour. It was reached after the man (dummy) had fallen 1,000 feet.

SADIE'S DOG "SNOW"

There was a dear little girl. She had a pretty voice and pretty eyes and she had a little dog named Snow. Snow was very small and very fluffy. His hair was very curly and he had a great deal of hair. Sometimes Sadie washed her hair and Snow would curl up on her lap and go to sleep. Snow enjoyed life very much. He had a warm box for his bed. It had cushions in it and he could curl up and go to sleep. There was a little neighbor who was fond of Snow and who played with him, too. Snow thought life was very nice indeed for a little pet dog with a dear mistress such as Sadie, and with so many friends, too. But one day in the winter time Snow got into the cellar. It was fun for him. He had a beautiful time. He played in the coal bin and thought it was lots of fun to see the coal go coasting down the coal chute. And he loved to see his own fluffy white paws become so changed in color. That was very amusing. Well, after he had been playing for some time in the coal bin he heard a calling for him. He was sure he would surprise her. He was sure she would think his black feet were very cunning. But when he came rushing up from the cellar Sadie seemed too astounded to be as happy as he thought he would be. "Oh, Snow!" she said. "How you

RAISING THE WIND

BESIDES whistling for a wind sail, sailors have another way of making blow; and anyone who happens to be on board a sailing vessel in a calm will probably see it tried. This is by taking a knife into the mast. Some say it should be the foremast, some say the mainmast. Or if the vessel is a two-master, the main. But the custom is generally selected for the foremast. The sailor takes his knife and drives it hard into the mast as the wind blows. And then the wind blows—after a while. It is merely a case of waiting. This custom is a survival from very early days and comes from the custom of primitive man of "bulldozing" his gods when they were not propitious or were not lending to business. Among savages today the idol, or fetish, is not infrequently scolded or beaten if it fails to respond to the supplications of its votaries. And among the lower orders of the early classical nations such a custom was not unknown. Primitive man and the modern constructed their gods so much in their own image that, while generally standing in awe of them, they were still possessed of a lurking idea that, upon occasions, they might be coerced. So when a sailor on a sailing schooner drives his knife into the mast to make the wind blow, it is, in reality, threatening the god of the winds in the same manner that a professor did on board the American galley exploring the coast of Spain in the early dusk and dawn of history.

do look. Where have you been? And when he wanted to bound into her lap, she said, "Oh, no, down! Down, Snow, you naughty dog!" Well, she didn't like his black paws as he had thought she would! He had been naughty. That explained perhaps why he had been having so very good a time. He was being naughty! Sadie's friends came to see her that very afternoon and they laughed at him. "Well," said Sadie, "you wouldn't laugh if you had given him a bath only two days ago, and now look at him!" "But he does look funny, I will admit!"

Only you see he is so used to being petted, and I simply can't pet him while he is like that. "He'd simply ruin everything I had on." Everyone seemed to agree that this was so. Well, he had a bath that very afternoon and then he couldn't go out because he had to keep very warm so as not to catch cold. And he was covered up with a blanket and watched over carefully. Not very long after this Snow was taking a walk with Sadie and with several of her friends. It was a nice day but the day before had been wet and rather foggy and the snow looked dirty and horrid. Now his name was Snow and when he had looked dirty everyone had exclaimed in horror—though some had laughed seeing him as he had been. At any rate Sadie had rushed at once to give him a bath.

But the snow all around was dirty and no one seemed to think it was funny. No one seemed to be laughing at it, nor giving it a bath, nor doing anything about cleaning it. Well, people were very strange. Snow had made up his mind about that. But they were nice in spite of everything. That was true, too. So he enjoyed life as much as ever, only when he couldn't understand things he gave up trying to understand them or puzzle them out. It was much better for a little dog not to worry his head about some of the curious ways of humans—it was much better that way. The main thing that counted was that humans were nice and that Sadie was nicest of all and she was his mistress, his own dear, dear mistress! (Copyright.)

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

WHO PAYS THE PENALTY?

THE faultiness of the fathers shall be visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generations"—the pity is, that it is true. Children have ultimately to pay the penalty for the mistakes of their parents. A father commits a crime and as a punishment he is sent to prison. He may remain there for a year or two, or even for a much longer period, but when he is released doubtless he is in a worse condition both mentally and spiritually than he was the first night he tried to sleep within prison walls. The result of his crime, however, does not end when he leaves the prison. During his imprisonment he has been denied the opportunity of working at his accustomed trade with the result that those dependent upon him have to shift for themselves. The mother, being forced to work during the day to support the little family, left the children without moral and spiritual oversight. Conditions of this nature are responsible for a large per cent of the crime today. Who is at fault? Of course, the father is primarily responsible, but, does confinement within prison walls ultimately solve the problem so far as justice to society is concerned? While it is important that the proper degree of punishment be imposed it is not also important that the cause of the crime be ascertained? If the father in the case has been a hopeless mental degenerate the condition is an abnormal one and deprivation of liberty the only remedy. But, if a person paying the penalty for his crime by imprisonment has the ability to earn a living for those dependent upon him should he not be compelled by law to do so? If some mental or physical condition is responsible for his crime should that not be discovered and an attempt be made to correct it? Crime is punished for the protection of society and surely this end is many times defeated by efforts, which, while, satisfying justice, disregard the exercise of mercy toward those who ultimately pay the penalty. Protection to society demands not only that crime be punished, but also that the cause for crime be discovered and remedied, and that dependent families be not deprived of adequate support at the expense of a judicial system which refuses to dispense "justice seasoned with mercy."

PORT EWEN

This evening at 7:29 o'clock there will be a special congregational meeting in the Port Ewen Reformed Church to elect a deacon to fill the vacancy left by Brother Benjamin Houghtaling. At 8 o'clock the choir will meet in the auditorium of the church. At 9 o'clock the Scouts will meet in the church house. On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock the consistory will meet in the parsonage. On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the thought at the service will be "Behold the Man." On Sunday evening at 7:29, communion will be observed. All who are to be received by letter but upon confession or reconfession of their faith are asked to meet the pastor and elders at 7:15 p. m. in the church house. All who have not yet sent in their letters of transfer to the pastor are urged to do so on or before Saturday evening. The loose offering for Communion Sunday will be dedicated to the Pension Fund. Members are asked not to forget their pledges to the Building Fund. There are still some 75th anniversary booklets left for sale. They are the only history of the Port Ewen Reformed Church. They can be procured from either Mr. Sever or the pastor.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Reformed Church will serve a roast pork supper in the church house Friday evening, December 1, commencing at 5:30 until all are served. The menu will consist of roast pork, dressing and gravy, mashed potatoes, lima beans, beet pickles, celery, apple pie, wheat and rye bread, cake, coffee and tea.

"Four Sons" At the Orpheum.
"Four Sons," a Fox picture, will start a four days' run in the Orpheum on Monday, December 3. It is expected that many photography enthusiasts who demand the best in cinema attractions will see this popular picture before its screening ends next Thursday. Margaret Mann, 60 year old extra, is starred as the mother of four soldier sons in "Four Sons" and her performance in the role has won for her a long term contract with the Fox picture producers.

Holy Name Card Party.
The Holy Name Society of Holy Name Church in Wilbur will hold a card party Monday evening in the parish house. Games will start at 8:15 o'clock. The public is invited.

The DAIRY

FAVOR SOY BEANS FOR DAIRY COW

Equal to Linseed Oilmeal as Protein Supplement.

Soy beans provide an excellent protein supplement for use in the grain ration for dairy cattle. Numerous experiments conducted by some of the leading experiment stations have proved ground soy beans to be equal to linseed oilmeal as a protein supplement in the dairy ration. Usually high protein feeds such as linseed oilmeal, cottonseed meal and corn gluten feed are high in price and if dairy men would grow more soy beans it would mean more independence of these high-priced protein feeds and insure a greater dairy income.

In feeding trials conducted at the Purdue university agricultural experiment station in 1927 comparing ground soy beans with linseed oilmeal, soy beans proved to be equal to linseed oilmeal as a protein supplement for dairy cattle when fed in the grain ration of corn and oats. Experiments conducted at the Purdue and South Dakota stations comparing soy bean hay with alfalfa hay, soy bean hay was found to be practically equal to alfalfa hay when fed to dairy cattle.

Trials conducted at the Iowa station in 1922 in comparing ground soy beans with linseed oilmeal, as a protein supplement for the dairy ration, the ground soy beans proved to be worth $60 per ton when old process linseed oilmeal was selling for $45 per ton. In other words, the ground soy beans fed as a protein supplement to the basal grain ration of corn and oats were worth one-third more than the linseed oilmeal. As a roughage for general herd feeding, good quality soy bean hay has proved to be just as good as alfalfa hay in the Purdue dairy herd the last winter. In fact we think so much of the bean hay that this year we will have 75 tons for winter feeding.—J. H. Hilton, Purdue university.

Figures Tell Story of Dairy Herd Improvement

Figures from more than 100,000 individual yearly records from cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations in the United States indicate that, on the average, cows producing 100 pounds of butterfat a year returned but $14 over the cost of feed. Cows that produced 200 pounds of butterfat returned $54 above feed costs; those producing 300 pounds returned $90; the 400-pound producers returned $138; and the cows of 500 pounds butterfat production returned $178 above feed costs. Thus the man milking a 500-pound producer would have more net return than if he milked a dozen cows producing only 100 pounds of butterfat. This would take no account of the added labor of milking and caring for the larger herd or of the much greater expense of providing stable room for a herd instead of a single animal. The production figures used in this calculation were obtained by the United States Department of Agriculture from the cow-testing associations of the country and the returns from butterfat are based on farm prices reported from all parts of the country.

Dairy Hints

Milk, especially when warm, absorbs odors rapidly.
It will pay to grind oats at 20 cents per 100 pounds when it is fed to dairy cows.
The "cowy" taste of market milk is due to mixture of cow manure and absorbed impurities.
Warm water offered in a sheltered place will be a comfort bottle will readily appreciate.
Free access to water or watering cows at least twice daily will increase the profits from winter dairying.
Comfortably warm, well lighted, well ventilated stables insure health and good work on the part of the cows.
It is always cheaper to sell a hard milking cow to the butcher and buy another cow than it is to try to cure the case.
Don't let the cows shiver. Cold cows don't turn in much milk. They cannot fight cold and make milk with the same feed.
It seems that lice prefer the legs of thrifty calves and on these they multiply and feed until the calf stops growing, loses weight and has very little resistance left.
It should be clear that after giving a cow the first half of a full ration necessary to keep her alive, and after giving her barn room, running the risk of her dying, and doing chores for her the year around, it is the poorest possible economy not to give her the second half of a full ration, which she will use in producing milk.

Annapolis' Nickname

The name "Paris of the Colonies" was applied to Annapolis. From a little settlement on the Severn in 1604, it grew in size and importance until it became the capital of Maryland. By 1750 it was famed for its gaiety and luxury and on that account was often referred to as the "Paris of the Colonies."

Scottish Tartan

The act of Parliament of 1746 which forbade Scottish highland clans to wear or use such parts of their native dress as were called the plaid, philibeg, or tartan kilt, was repealed in 1782 and soon after George IV, on a visit to Edinburgh, himself appeared in the tartan as a compliment to the people of the North.

Safemakers War

Endlessly on Yeggs

London.—Recent scientific safe robbers have been called attention to the unrelenting battle being waged between safemakers and safe breakers.

Modern methods of burglary emphasize the progress in safemaking since 1793, when iron-bound treasure chests began to be abandoned and the modern safe began to evolve.

With each advance in safety devices, the robbers have developed new means of neutralizing them, and have used engineering and chemistry as aids.

As soon as safe crackers have solved the new obstacles to their success, the manufacturers employ others. It is a ceaseless battle.

ARCTIC POLICE COVER BIG AREA

Canada's Mounted Force on Northern Islands Brave Blizzards and Fogs.

Winnipeg, Man.—Notwithstanding severe weather conditions—blizzard, fog, frost and rain—detachments of the Royal Canadian Mounted police stationed at posts on the islands and mainland in the eastern Arctic sub-district carried out more than 7,500 miles of patrol covering the less frequently visited parts of Ellesmere, Devon and Baffin, and including Axel Heiberg, Graham, Buckingham and North Kent islands.

A number of important geographical discoveries were made during these long patrols, a census of the Eskimos in the areas visited was taken, game conditions were noted, and medical and other assistance was provided when necessary. Reports from the various detachments were received at the police headquarters in Ottawa by the patrol ship Boethic when she returned from her annual trip to these regions recently.

At Bache peninsula on Ellesmere Island, the farthest north post, Constables E. Anstead, G. T. Makinson and H. R. Garnett spent an adventurous year, says the Canadian interior department, in telling of the vicissitudes of this northern service.

"In March, 1928, an attempt was made to enter the interior of the northern end of the island by Sawyer bay and Canon fiord to Lake Hazen, but it was checked by the dangerous condition of a glacier which barred the way.

Glacier Blocking Pass.

"On March 22 Constable Anstead left with two Eskimos on a patrol to the West coast which lasted until April 30, and accounted for some 850 miles. The pass from Finger fiord to Gretha bay fiord, on the West coast, is being slowly blocked by a glacier and Constable Anstead, defying the alarm of his Eskimos, managed to squeeze through between the precipitous foot of the glacier and the cliff which constitutes the opposite side of the valley. The space was barely wide enough for them to pass, blocks of ice fell from time to time and 600 yards of the trail was very dangerous. The men worked so hard that, though the temperature was 30 degrees below zero, they were bathed in perspiration. From the western coast the party visited Axel Heiberg Island, crossed Norwegian bay to Graham and Buckingham islands, skirted North Kent Island, and spent some time in the Bjorne peninsula on the return journey to the coast. In the last-named locality at a point about 200 feet above sea level several outcroppings of soft coal were found.

"Constable Makinson made some interesting geographical discoveries during a patrol from the Bache peninsula coast to the east coast of Ellesmere Island, to Craig harbor on the southern coast and westward to Starves fiord. He was accompanied by one Eskimo and in addition to visiting an unnamed island east of Cape Dunsterville, on which he noticed remains of native igloos, he found and explored a large fiord north of Clarence head.

"Travelers usually cut across on the ice, but Constable Makinson followed the shore and discovered first a large bay running southwest, and then a fiord two miles wide. An island in the middle of the bay made the fiord difficult to notice from seaward. He also explored some 50 miles up the fiord and its branches. The party was absent from the coast for 40 days and covered 700 miles.

Climbs Frozen Waterfall.

"From Pond Inlet, at the northern end of Baffin Island, Inspector C. E. Wilcox made a patrol of 900 miles to Fury and Hecla strait; Constable S. B. G. Margetta aggregated nearly 1,300 miles during three patrols to Milne Inlet, Arctic sound, and Home bay respectively, and Constable Cox made some shorter patrols to the height of land between Eclipse sound and Foxe basin. The most important trip was Inspector Wilcox's patrol to Fury and Hecla strait, this taking him to the northern end of Foxe basin and to Melville peninsula. He traveled across the interior of the northwestern part of Baffin Island, traversing numerous lakes, and on one occasion climbing a frozen waterfall. About 150 Eskimos were visited, and they were generally prosperous, with plenty of food. The usual census was taken. In this region the caribou were quite numerous, and wolves were scarce. The journey was marked by a five-day blizzard, and the weather was so cold that the coal-oil, carried for fuel, froze and had to be thawed out by native oil lamps before it was used. Constable Margetta's patrol to Home bay, a matter of 51 days between April 12 and May 31, accounted for 945 miles. In this area, too, the natives were prosperous.

"Weather was unfavorable for long patrols on Devon Island in the vicinity of Dundas harbor. However, two extended patrols were made, one across the island to Belcher point and the other westward to a place called Cuning creek and inland up the gorge of this watercourse.

Patrolled by Dog Team.

"From Pangnirtung, the post on Cumberland Gulf, Baffin Island, Sergeant O. G. Petty patrolled the gulf and visited native camps on the coast.

const of the island. The winter was unfavorable for traveling owing to conditions of weather and ice, nevertheless, the entire district was patrolled by dog team, the distance aggregating 1,300 miles. One of the men, Constable G. J. M. Curleigh, patrolled to Cape Mercy and remained there for some time hunting. He also made a journey with one Eskimo companion along the southeastern coast to Cornell Grinnell bay. A shortage of dog feed and frequent and severe storms made this trip a trying one. The party was absent forty-five days and covered 640 miles.

"The detachment at Lake Harbor on the southern coast of Baffin Island was established during the winter of 1927-28 by Sergeant J. E. F. Wright, with Constable P. Dersch. The buildings were begun while the Boethic was in the harbor on last summer's patrol. After she left, the rain was incessant and it was six weeks before the policemen could go on with the work. As all the dogs had died in an epidemic, comparatively little patrol work was done. The total mileage was about 500.

"At Port Burwell, at the entrance to Hudson strait, on the mainland, Corporal H. G. Nichols and Constable S. R. Montague were stationed. All of the native families along Ungava bay were visited and their health was reported as exceptionally good.

"The police posts received instructions from Ottawa by radio and reception varied considerably. At Bache peninsula, within 700 miles of the North pole, it was fair; at Dundas harbor and Pond Inlet it was good, and at Pangnirtung it was on the whole poor."

Happy Gorilla Family.

The gorilla is monogamous and divorce and remarriage are not among his problems. When domestic relations have once been formed they remain "until death doth part." No companionate or trial marriages in the forest. The young cling to the family group until matured, and often longer, bringing their own mates to live in the habitat of their parents. The reputation of this type of ape for ferocity is said to have been greatly exaggerated. As might be expected of an animal loving peaceful home life with its family, the gorilla, naturalists assert, rarely becomes dangerous unless attacked. In defense of its family or itself, however, it will savagely attack an aggressor who forces it into battle.

Sets Up Standards

for Mixing Paints

Washington, D. C.—Mix and miss methods of mixing paints will soon be replaced by mathematical methods when the results of an investigation into the strength of pigments used in making tints completed by the United States bureau of standards are put into practical use.

The bureau has measured with the spectrophotometer the color value of 104 different mixtures of pigments combined with a standard color.

The investigation has disclosed the exact strength and amount of a pigment that should be mixed with a standard color to bring a given result. The investigation is hoped to result in a numerical color value being given to each pigment instead of the mixture depending on more or less uncertain methods of comparing shades.

Irrigation Project

to Be Ready in 1930

Washington.—An announcement has been made that the government would be able to deliver water to the upper end of the 70,000-acre Kittitas irrigation project in Washington in 1930. According to Dr. Elwood Mead, federal reclamation commissioner, unless satisfactory progress is made by the owners of the land in the project toward development for irrigation purposes no estimate for continued construction will be submitted in the budget in 1930.

Commissioner Mead said he recently advised F. A. Kern, secretary of the Kittitas reclamation district, that the government already had invested $6,000,000 in the project and it would be ready to deliver some water in 1929, but that apparently no effort was being made by the private owners of the land to make it ready for settlers.

Twain Liked Typewriter.

Mark Twain is said to be the first author to submit typewritten manuscript to a publisher. In the autumn of 1874, Mr. Clemens was strolling down one of the streets of Boston with a friend, when he was drawn by curiosity to a strange-looking device in the window of a stationery store. It made a deep impression upon Twain, who purchased this primitive typewriter, and shortly thereafter the manuscript of "Life on the Mississippi" was typed on the machine which he had bought.
